KIWANIS HOME FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

Four members involved with the Kiwanis high-rise apartment for senior citizens to be built in Kelowna are looking over the model of the 10-storey building prior to a meeting with city council Monday. Left to right are Carl Briese, chairman of the Kiwanis committee, John Richardson who built the model and is working for the architects, Arthur Boyd, architect for the project and Ted Cuddeford, president of the James White

Foundation of Vancouver, the organization which put up a portion of the money for building of these types of projects for senior citizens. It is hoped work will start as soon as property sale has been completed and details worked out with the city and mortgage company. Tentative starting date would be late September of this year. (Courier photo)

Hydro Strikers Stay Out Until Talks Get Serious

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 1,900 of British Columbia Hydro's 2,000 electrical workers walked off their jobs Monday and said they won't be back until the government corporation gets serious about their contract negotiations.

Hydro chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said the company is serious about the talks but can't budge further on wage demands without discriminating against other employees.

Both sides have taken emergency steps to assure Hydro power will remain on today—unless a serious accident occurs and can't be handled by the union's 100-man emergency skeleton crew reinforced by Hydro supervisory personnel.

Meanwhile, Labor Minister James Chabot says the strike "is not a public interest situation at the moment" and he hasn't decided to use the powers of the controversial Mediation Commission Act to order the men back.

"We haven't taken any action," he said following a cabinet meeting shortly after most of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' members walked off their jobs.

"We've allowed a lot of time in this dispute," he said. "As I've said before, we will only use this legislation as a last resort. Not before."

However, it wouldn't take the government long to act if the union's dozen members at the Mica dam picket and stop about 4,000 construction workers from going to their jobs.

"We would probably tolerate a picket line at Mica," he said, "but not for long. It would be too costly for all involved, including the workers."

Union spokesman Doug Cronk said Monday night no pickets would appear at the Mica site.

"This is a strike to withdraw our services from Hydro, not a picket strike," said Mr. Cronk.

"We don't want to put pressure on other workers or the public unless we really have to."

Pickets at Jordan River are stopping about 250 construction crew members from going to work.

Mr. Chabot said he would re-examine the situation today to see if the emergency union skeleton crews plus supervisory personnel can maintain hydro service.

"I'm also meeting with union officials to discuss the situation," said Mr. Chabot.

Mr. Cronk in Vancouver said the Chabot meeting was a mystery to him.

"The strike will continue until the dispute is resolved one way or another or some system is set up to solve it. The present situation is one of crisis, brinkmanship if you want. We don't have a choice. Hydro wouldn't budge."

Dr. Shrum said he could not forecast how long hydro power can be maintained in B.C. if the strike continues.

"We shall try to keep the units operating as long as we can," he said. "And we are accepting all union offers to do emergency work."

"But we won't be connecting new customers until the strike ends," he said. "We won't have the manpower for that."

Emkeit Decision Reserved

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today reserved decision on a motion by Ronald Emkeit of Calgary who seeks to appeal his conviction of non-capital murder.

Emkeit was convicted Sept. 25, 1970 of the murder of Ronald George Hartley. The death occurred during a fracas between two rival motorcycle gangs.

Calgary lawyer L. A. Matt argued 16 points before a panel of three Supreme Court justices today, alleging errors by the trial judge and in the way the Crown put its case against Emkeit.

Among the 16 points, the judges reserved decision on the validity of a poem read by Crown counsel at the trial which Mr. Matt said was extremely prejudicial. The judges also premised concerned about the admission of two bullwhips as exhibits at the trial.

Mr. Matt was given permission to file supplementary written arguments before Thursday. A court decision is expected Monday.

Income Tax Bill Draft Prepared

OTTAWA (CP) — A draft provincial income tax bill has been prepared by the federal government as a suggestion of the kind of law the provinces would be expected to enact under the federal government's revised Income Tax Act.

The document, of about 15 pages, will be discussed by Finance Minister Edgar Benson with provincial treasurers when they meet here July 12.

It envisages the provinces continuing the present agreements by which they levy provincial taxes on the same basis as federal income tax. Ottawa collects the taxes for both and pays the provincial share to the provincial governments at no charge for making the collections.

A finance department official said it will be necessary to have the revised income tax law passed by the Commons and Senate, and given royal assent, before it can be introduced next Jan. 1. But the provinces will not be up against the same deadline, and could enact their parallel legislation next spring.

All provinces but Quebec now have tax collecting agreements with the federal government. Quebec has its own income tax law and administers it separately. Ontario exercises its own taxing powers over corporation income.

It is possible for the federal government to change tax rates and have them come into effect immediately, subject only to ratification by Parliament later.

But in the case of a sweeping revision of tax law, the national revenue department has to have every detailed clause formally approved by Parliament before it can administer it. It then has to draw up the necessary forms and regulations.

For this reason, there will be pressure on the Commons and Senate to pass Mr. Benson's proposed new income tax law well before Christmas.

Alberta, B.C. Governments Give Approval To Charter

VICTORIA (CP) — The British Columbia government has given its approval to the constitutional charter worked out here last week at the federal-provincial conference, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Tuesday.

Mr. Bennett said the proposed charter was accepted unanimously by the provincial cabinet at a meeting Monday.

"B.C. is pleased . . . to accept this charter as being not only good for British Columbia, but good for the whole of Canada," he said.

Ottawa and the provincial governments were given until next Monday to either accept or reject the charter hammered out at the conference, which Mr. Bennett described as "the most historical conference ever held in Canada since Confederation."

Mr. Bennett said his government will wait to see what the other provinces do before deciding whether or not to call a special session of the legislature to give final approval to the charter.

Russia Expels Two Diplomats

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Two British diplomats, a first and a second secretary, have been ordered to leave the Soviet Union, informed sources said today.

In London, the foreign office announced the expulsion of two Soviet diplomats for "engaging in active intelligence operations against the United Kingdom."

The announcement came only minutes after the Soviet move.

The latest move comes only eight weeks after another second secretary was ordered out of the country.

The first secretary, Martin Nicholson, has only been on his present assignment since January.

The second secretary ordered to leave at the same time, Patrick Jackson, has been here two years.

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Harry Strom's Social Credit government approved without reservation today the Canadian constitution charter worked out at the federal-provincial conference in Victoria last week.

Alberta is the third province to approve the charter drawn up at a meeting of premiers in Victoria last week. The Ontario cabinet gave its approval Monday.

Premier Harry Strom said all Alberta's important requests are given adequate consideration in the charter and he is prepared to give it his full support.

Among the requests mentioned by the premier were a call for an early conference to deal with economic problems and for modification of language rights to meet the conditions that exist in the province.

Premier Strom said the cabinet will recommend acceptance of the agreement to the legislature.

Debate To Occupy Commons Until June Adjournment

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson was variously described by Conservatives in the Commons today as a "mobile catastrophe" and operator of a shell game.

The first description was applied by Gerald Baldwin, Conservative House leader, and the second by Marcel Lambert, Conservative financial spokesman who left off the first day of the budget debate.

The debate will occupy nearly all the Commons' time until its scheduled adjournment June 30 for a two-month summer holiday.

Mr. Lambert said the government's original white paper on tax changes was "almost defied" by the Liberals.

But on budget night Friday Liberals had applauded as Mr. Benson had retreated step by step from the white paper.

Mr. Lambert said the proposed tax changes are not real tax reform. Nothing had been done about sales and excise taxes.

He said persons over 70 would get no additional tax benefits, especially no relief from sales and municipal taxes. Tax reform should cover all types of taxes.

Mr. Lambert also said it is inconsistent to tax unemployment

He said the reduction in federal taxes on television sets, radios and other electronics products is too late. Many components now were manufactured in other countries and the ultimate benefit to employment would be in Japan or Europe.

Two Subpoenas Are Issued In B.C. Telephone Hearing

VANCOUVER (CP) — At the request of the B.C. Federation of Labor the railway transport committee of the Canadian Transport Commission Monday issued subpoenas to executives of two B.C. Telephone Company affiliates.

The move came on the 11th day of a hearing into a B.C. Tel. rate application. It reverses an earlier ruling by the committee that it had no power to command affiliates to produce witnesses.

The subpoenas have gone to officials of Dominion Directory Co. Ltd. and Canadian Telephone and Supplies Ltd. They will take the witness stand today.

At the outset of the present hearing into B.C. Tel.'s application, both the federation and the attorney general's department sought orders enforcing B.C. Tel.'s disclosure of dealings with affiliates and the financial statements of those companies.

The committee ruled against such moves on the grounds that they would be beyond its jurisdiction powers.

B.C. Tel. is a member of a 138-company telecommunications empire controlled by General Telephone and Electronics Corp., of New York. The provincial company relies on affiliates for more than half its equipment and supplies.

The federation responded to the committee's action by deciding to press an appeal in the federal court in an attempt to upset the ruling.

The change of mind by the committee follows an opinion given in the Federal Court of Canada Friday by Mr. Chief Justice W. R. Jaccett that the commission has the power to subpoena witnesses.

Alex Macdonald of the federation, said that the subpoenas set a precedent where affiliate companies are called into question in hearings before federal regulatory bodies.

He said that as the commission's conduct in applications by gas transmission and railway companies, as well as telephone utilities, it could mean, say, that "in a situation where CP Rail pushes a job to a subsidiary, the position will be examined."

Two Killed In Car Crash

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Two men were killed Monday night seven miles east of here when the car in which they were riding crashed into a bridge abutment.

Killed were Austin Arthur Brager, 39, of North Kamloops and a 50-year-old man believed from the South Okanagan.

A police spokesman said the car, apparently driven by Mr. Brager, missed an underpass to the bridge and smashed into the concrete abutment at the side. The vehicle was demolished.

The committee ruled against such moves on the grounds that they would be beyond its jurisdiction powers.

B.C. Tel. is a member of a 138-company telecommunications empire controlled by General Telephone and Electronics Corp., of New York. The provincial company relies on affiliates for more than half its equipment and supplies.

Legislation For Revising Corporation Act Is Tabled

OTTAWA (CP) — Draft proposals for a revised Corporation Act to give shareholders increased power to police their directors were tabled in the Commons today by Corporate Affairs Minister Ron Basford.

The proposed draft legislation, the product of a study since 1967 by a three-man committee, would strip dozens of entrenched precedents from the body of corporation law.

Common-law restrictions on a shareholder's right to press a suit against a director would be removed and corporations would be required to pay off minority shareholders who choose to sell their interest rather than go along with a major change in operation.

At the same time, the proposals would ease the process of incorporation, remove frequently ineffectual limitations on the use of a corporation's activities and permit a corporation to chase its own shares. Re-incorporation of a company in a new jurisdiction would also be eased.

Tabling the documents, Mr. Basford told the Commons the aim of the proposals is that the law should permit corporations "to develop and grow without unnecessary or unwarranted constraints, but should protect adequately the investors who contribute capital to those institutions."

Mr. Basford invited opinions on the proposals from the public.

The proposed draft legislation follows recommendations from the study group in 1969 dealing with financial disclosure, insider trading, proxies, takeovers and investigations.

The recommendations were embodied in amendments to the Canada Corporations Act which were approved last year.

The study group was appointed by Justice Minister John Turner, then minister responsible for the Corporation Act. On the committee were Robert Dickerson, a Vancouver lawyer and chartered accountant, John Howard, a lawyer, now director of research in the corporate affairs department, and Leon Getz, a law professor at the University of British Columbia.

B.C. Salmon Net Fishermen Threaten To Strike Saturday

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia salmon net fishermen have voted to go on strike Saturday unless they get a better contract offer from employers, Homer Stevens, president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, said Monday.

He said a B.C. coast ballot was 84.5 per cent in favor of strike action rather than accept a two-year contract proposal from the Fisheries Association of B.C.

In a separate ballot, the net fishermen voted 86.8 per cent to start a strike at 6 p.m. Saturday unless the association "will negotiate a substantial settlement."

The union recommended last week that the 4,500 fishermen reject an offer of about 10 per cent more in payment for salmon.

The UFAWU said the companies last year paid 39 cents a pound for sockeye, 30 cents for coho, 14½ cents for pinkie and from 15½ to 17½ cents for chums.

The last association offer was 40½ cents a pound for sockeye in 1971 and 41 cents in 1972, the union said. Other company proposals were 30 and 30½ cents for coho; 15½ cents each year for pinkie; and 15½ and 16 cents a pound for chums.

Pepin Answers Census Charges

OTTAWA (CP) — Fewer than one per cent of Canadian households received census forms in the wrong languages, Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin told the Commons Tuesday.

Mr. Pepin was replying to questions on a report Monday by Keith Spicer, commissioner of official languages, which said "serious infringements" of the Official Languages Act were committed during the 1971 census.

The report said many French-speaking persons were given English forms for the June 1 census and some census takers could not converse in French in French-speaking areas of the country.

Youth Grants To B.C. Blasted

Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi and Mayor Tom Campbell of Vancouver Monday criticized grants under the federal youth program, with the mayor especially annoyed by a $15,000 grant to the newspaper Georgia Straight. "This is unbelievable," said the mayor. "The way I understand it, this means the paper is getting about $4,000 more than Ottawa is giving the city of Vancouver to handle summer youth problems." Mayor Campbell accused Ottawa of squandering millions of dollars to pacify youth while ignoring the real problem of unemployment. Mr. Gaglardi objected to many grants to help set up communities, create arts and crafts centres and generally support what he called radical causes. He said "anything left of left got an opportunity for youth grant."

PRINCE PHILIP
... blunder?

Prince Philip said Monday that if Britain should join the European Common Market it would discover the market's farm policies were producing "a most frightful mess." His remarks, made on the same day that Britain gained another edge in its effort to join the six-nation Common Market, drew barbs from London newspapers. "It was a bombshell," said The Mirror, adding that "even among anti-market politicians the duke's speech will be regarded as an astounding and ill-advised blunder into one of the greatest political issues to face Britain."

Nova Scotia should reject the proposed constitutional charter because it eliminates any bargaining power the province would have in future constitutional discussions, former premier G. I. Smith said today. Mr. Smith, premier from 1967 until his Progressive Conservative government was defeated in last October's general election, said the charter prepared at last week's federal-provincial conference asks the province to give up more than it would receive.

Unless Canada increases its rate of economic growth, says Senator J. C. Heig (PC-Manitoba), "the welfare system is going to bankrupt us." Speaking in the Senate Monday on a bill to overhaul the Unemployment Insurance Act, he asked that it be rejected "for the sake of fiscal sanity." The bill, already passed by the Commons, was given second reading and referred to committee for detailed study.

Prime Minister Heath said Monday that British entry into the European Common Market would mean another stage in Britain's long-standing practice of adjusting itself to changes in the Commonwealth and the world generally. The prime minister recalled that one of the reasons behind Britain's decision against joining the Market on its establishment in the mid-1950s was the belief that such a step clashed "with our other roles in the Commonwealth and in relation to the United States."

B. J. McGill, vice-president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said Monday his 10-day tour of China which ended during the weekend showed good prospects for expanded Canadian trade with the Communist nation. Mr. McGill, general manager of the bank's international division, said in an interview that Chinese bankers are anxious to develop new ties with their counterparts in Canada and are anticipating an increase in trade in both directions between the two countries.

Dr. Glen Hamilton, director of the B.C. Association of Social Workers, said Monday the profession is losing morale because of what he called an "anti-welfare backlash." Dr. Hamilton said in an interview that social workers are apprehensive that the current economic situation will cause a regression in welfare policies.

Dr. Martin Holgate, co-ordinator of Britain's department of the environment, told a news conference Monday that his department has "already demonstrated a capacity to steadily overcome pollution." He said that a few years ago the Thames River was completely polluted for 16 miles and by fish could live in its waters. Today, more than 10 varieties of fish live in the river, he said.

An MP who accompanied Prime Minister Trudeau on his recent visit to the Soviet Union said Monday night he brought up the question of jailed Ukrainian nationalists during formal talks with Ukrainian leaders in Kiev. Walter Deacon, Liberal member for Toronto High Park, said in an interview he also spoke informally with the Russians about "Czechs and people in the Baltic states too."

The government's proposed Canada Development Corp. is aimed at encouraging investment by Canadians, but Senator Allister Grossart's guess is that the public will not invest in the corporation. "I see no reason to believe the Canadian public will ever be induced to participate in the CDC," the Ontario Conservative told the Senate Monday.

Senator J. J. Kinley (L-Nova Scotia) has resigned from the Senate because of ill health. The resignation of the 88-year-old senator was announced Monday night in the Senate by Senator Paul Martin, government leader in the upper chamber, who said the retiring member's contribution could be recalled with pride and gratitude.

Municipal Affairs Minister William Gillis said Monday the government has not changed its stand in a dispute with the Ambulance Operators' Association of Nova Scotia that has affected ambulance services in the province. The 43 members of the association withdrew services Monday, leaving the province with emergency ambulance service under the co-ordination of the Emergency Measures Organization.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton announced Monday a new extension of the "freeze" imposed for the last two and a half years on federal lands making up more than 90 per cent of Alaska. The freeze, imposed by the secretary Stewart L. Udall Jan. 17, 1969, has blocked selection by the state of more than 100 million acres granted in its 1958 statehood act and has suspended action on applications for mineral leases and other land uses.

The prosecutor of Lieut. William L. Calley testified Monday he was ordered by a superior officer not to call Capt. Ernest L. Medina as a witness in Calley's court martial. Aubrey M. Daniel, recently released from the army with the rank of captain, said Col. Robert Lathrop, chief legal officer of Fort Benning, Ga., where Calley was tried and convicted on premeditated murder charges in connection with the My Lai massacre, ordered him in writing not to call Medina.

Canada will offer Australia two types of nuclear power reactor in the next year, Lorne Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., hinted Monday. "We are very definitely staying in the international marketing of nuclear power plants with a greater effort and another horse in our stable," Mr. Gray said at a news conference.

The four former committee members wrote an article for The Last Post, a Montreal-based monthly publication, saying they quit the committee in April after a disagreement with Senator Croll, the chairman. "We resigned because the chairman did not want to accept

THREE DOWN AND TWO TO GO IN B.C. SUPERMARKET TALKS

VANCOUVER (CP) — It's three down and two to go for the five unions negotiating for about 5,900 employees in the British Columbia supermarket industry.

About 600 employees of Macdonalds Consolidated Ltd., wholesale suppliers for Safeway throughout B.C., ratified a one-year contract giving them a 40-cent hourly wage boost.

The 40-cent raise goes to all being paid under the $4.06 hourly for order-fillers. The order-fillers will get a 10-cent hourly increase.

Members of the Retail, Wholesale Union, local 580, will now unload trucks at supermarkets. This was previously done by members of the Retail Clerks' Union. It involves about six jobs.

About 3,000 members of the Retail Clerks Union are voting on a two-year contract giving them about a 20 per cent raise.

Kelly Douglas and Co. Ltd. employees, 900 of them in 11 branches in B.C., have ratified a two-year contract giving them 18 per cent.

Contracts have yet to be worked out among 800 Amalgamated Meat Cutters, 600 Bakery and Confectionery Workers and Safeway, Super Valu, IGA, Overwaitea, Shop Easy, Food Fair and High-Low.

Former Committee Members Target Of Croll's Charges OTTAWA (CP) — Senator David Croll (L-Ontario) accused four former staff members of the Senate poverty committee Thursday of a grave misuse of confidential and privileged documents. The four—economists Peter Penz and Brian Hill, and writers Bill Cameron and Ian Adams—deny that they violated any oaths of secrecy in an article on the committee's work published Monday.

The issue may come before a special Senate committee on privilege. Senator Jacques Flynn (PC-Quebec) said opposition leader, after hearing Senator Croll's prepared Senate statement, said the matter appears serious. He would consider moving a motion today asking that a Senate committee inquire into the matter.

Senator David Walker (PC-Ontario) asked whether the four could get jail sentences if they abused any oaths they took when they joined the committee. Government Senate Leader Paul Martin (L-Ontario) said it was best to await Senator Flynn's speech before making further statements.

The four former committee members wrote an article for The Last Post, a Montreal-based monthly publication, saying they quit the committee in April after a disagreement with Senator Croll, the chairman. "We resigned because the chairman did not want to accept a candid appraisal of our society," they said. They also said that the committee "has already used the issue of confidentiality in an attempt to block the publication of this work."

The four declared that all Senator Croll wanted "was a slanging match" with the four. But publication of the Senate committee's report on poverty would be delayed until September because work supposed to be done by them was in fact incomplete.

The committee had hoped to make the report public by last Easter. Senator Croll said that last April, after the four resigned, he placed on the Senate record the agreement and a contract signed by Mr. Adams, Mr. Hill and Mr. Cameron. He also quoted from a parliamentary expert who said publication of any portion of evidence or documents given to special committees was a breach of privilege of the Senate.

Davis Not Facing The Facts On Flooding Says Williston

VICTORIA (CP) — Resources Minister Ray Williston said Monday there is no way British Columbia can allow enough water to escape from the W. A. C. Bennett Dam to cause flooding in the Athabasca Delta.

The B.C. minister was replying to charges by Jack Davis, federal environment minister, that the province should release more water from the dam and pay compensation for damage caused by low water in the Athabasca Delta.

Mr. Williston said in an interview the federal minister was resorting to glib statements and refusing to face "the facts of life."

"Merely releasing more water won't solve the problems of the Athabasca Delta," he said. "The low flow (in the Peace and Athabasca rivers) during the past three years has been a natural phenomenon. And we couldn't let enough water through (the Bennett Dam) to create a flood which created the backwaters in the delta originally."

Mr. Williston said the diversion tunnels around the Bennett Dam have been closed so that enough water can be collected in the reservoir to get new generators into operation as quickly as possible. Even then, the reservoir won't be filled until some time in 1972.

Referring to studies by B.C. and Alberta officials into the potential ecological damage caused by the water shortage in the Athabasca Delta, the minister said preliminary findings indicate natural conditions vary widely in the area. "By releasing more water all we may be doing is perpetuating a problem. But to be honest I'm not sure that we could do it anyway because we have no facilities to let that large amount of water through at one time."

SEEDLING FOR BEAUTY

Visitors to the new $4.5 million corrugated container plant built here by Crown Zellerbach will receive seedlings ready for transplanting, Kelowna beauty Lynne Clarke holds a Douglas fir seedling. The plant was built under the federal incentives to industry plan and was officially opened this afternoon. The plant will be open to the public Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons. A loggers' sports show on the parking lot at 2 p.m. each day will precede tours of the building.

CEREMONIES TODAY

Government Officials Open Container Plant

Three government representatives broke through a giant corrugated box to officially open Crown Zellerbach's $4.5 million corrugated container plant here today.

The trio included Mines Minister Francis Richter; MP Bruce Howard, parliamentary secretary to the federal minister of industry, trade and commerce; and Mayor Hilbert Roth.

The two senior government representatives, assisted by Mayor Roth, sliced a large hole in the container, covering the plant's office entrance, to reveal Lady of the Lake Heather Martin.

The three government officials then entered the building where the mayor pressed a console button to start production on a printer-slicer machine.

Key company people participating in the opening included President Robert G. Rogers; C. C. "Jack" Honour, vice-president for the pulp and paper group; Orval C. Cook, vice-president for pulp and paper marketing; Lyall Dagg, general manager of the paper products division; and Ray Pascoe, manager of the Kelowna plant.

About 250 guests were invited to the formal opening, which also included a tour of the plant and a loggers' sports show featuring CZ woodsmen George Rintala and Alan Woodrow.

Today's formal opening was being followed by a three-day open house for the public, Wednesday to Friday, which includes loggers' sports shows and tours of the plant.

Plant manager Ray Pascoe has employed eight Kelowna high school students to guide guests on the tours.

"We've laid out the tour route so people can get an instant education in box manufacturing," he said.

"People take corrugated boxes for granted, but usually that changes once they've seen what goes into making one." A variety of intricate machines and conveyors in the plant help convert giant rolls of paper into high stacks of finished containers, complete with colorful printing which identifies customers' products.

Council Seeks Work Approval

Work was expected to begin soon on landscaping at the Kelowna General Hospital. City council Monday agreed to seek hospital board approval of a $3,900 expenditure to install landscape screening on that portion of the south side of Royal Avenue fronting all hospital-owned property.

The work would include removal and replacement of boulevard turf, excavation and backfill of boulevard to conform to the north edge of the proposed parking lot, three driveway curb relocations, installations of an underground irrigation system and planting of a five to six foot hedge.

Carried out by the city following approval by the hospital board, the cost would be borne eventually through the board's method of financing through BCHIS and would be paid back to the city.

... Cloud

Wednesday was expected to be cloudy and cooler. Kelowna temperatures were a high and low of 82 and 54 Monday, with Tuesday's expected high and low at 83 and 50.

The expected high Wednesday is 80.

Focal point of the plant's equipment is a 360-foot long corrugating machine which converts three jumbo rolls of paper into corrugated "sandwich" which consists of a fluted core bonded between two layers of heavy kraft paper.

The machine, operated by a skilled crew, can manufacture 100,000 square feet of corrugated material per hour. Another feature of the plant is a highly-effective treatment system for solid and liquid waste, including a vacuum conveyor network which gathers scraps from the manufacturing process to be baled and shipped to the coast for recycling.

Located just off Highway 97 in Kelowna Industrial Park, the plant was built by Crown Zellerbach to meet a growing demand in the southern interior for agricultural and other industrial containers.

The plant's boxes carry fruit, vegetables, distilled and other beverages, canned goods, and several other items to market across Canada and as far away as Asia and the United Kingdom.

Financed in part under the federal government's Regional Development Incentives Act, the operation employs 40 people at Kelowna.

The company presently is providing jobs for a total of 925 people in the Okanagan region, and their wages and salaries annually total about $10 million.

The company operates seven lumber mills and two plywood plants, as well as the box plant in the region.

With headquarters in Vancouver, Crown Zellerbach also has pulp, paper, packaging, and building materials operations on the B.C. coast. About 50 per cent of its sales are made across Canada, with an additional 34 per cent made to customers in the U.S. and the balance to overseas markets.

also included in this year's agenda.

The "peaches and cream" contest is one example of a "kooky" contest. It will be for "teenagers" only, and will consist of entrants peeling peaches, then adding cream (supplied by a local business) and eating as many servings of peaches and cream as they can.

The person eating the most is, of course, proclaimed the winner. The city of Vernon will be entering a honey display this year, and Summerland has an ecology display planned. Mrs. Primrose Upton and the Kelowna Centennial Museum are providing the fair with displays of "pioneer equipment and utensils."

The fair also expects to receive a Department of Agriculture display from Cache Creek. Chief Noll Derricksan is in charge of the Indian Handicraft display, and will be supplying many of the handicrafts to be seen during Regatta.

A "cooking demonstration" for men will also be included in the events scheduled and will be conducted by a gentleman who is employed by one of the local department stores.

MAYOR SAYS

'City Just As Frustrated'

The city is as frustrated with conditions on Highway 97 as are businessmen in the area, Mayor Hilbert Roth said Monday.

The B.C. highways department is constructing a median which will restrict left turn traffic on the highway. Businessmen have met twice with department officials to protest the plan.

A representative of the businessmen told council a lower speed limit would probably be better than the median.

"We told the highways minister the limit should be lowered," answered the mayor. "But we got nowhere."

The city became concerned with the problem because of the new Orchard Park shopping centre, expected to be ready soon. City representatives met department officials several times. They suggested the 30 miles per hour limit should go to the Rutland turnoff.

Ald. W. J. C. Kane said businessmen should take the matter to the Regional District of Central Okanagan.

Council also discussed problems on Harvey Ave. at Glen-more Street, and Glenmore at Bernard Ave.

The traffic advisory committee, of which Ald. S. A. Hodge is chairman, recommended a study be made with a view to relieving traffic problems at the intersection. The committee said use of the northeast right turn lane at the Bernard Avenue corner, and the "almost impossible" left turn situation during the rush hour, compounded by the backup at the Glenmore Street corner, makes for a real problem.

City engineer Vince Borch

said the study would have to be done with the co-operation of the highways department. Also, changes planned to Glenmore Street might ease the problem.

Ald. Kane said the city should clamp down on left turns. The mayor suggested a controlled left turn signal at Bernard Avenue.

The matter will be discussed by city and highways officials. Another item dealt with a traffic study initiated by the city and district. A few months ago, council rescinded the appointment of city planner G. P. Stevens to the regional planning committee. However, city administrator D. B. Herbert suggested that, since Mr. Stevens drafted terms of reference for the study, he should participate in discussions by the committee on it.

"Is this getting in the back door?" wondered Ald. Hodge.

"I hope so," suggested Ald. Alan Moss, who opposed taking Mr. Stevens from the committee.

With Ald. Hodge opposed, council gave Mr. Stevens permission to participate in discussions concerning the traffic study.

SEEN and HEARD

Municipal financing will be the subject when the Okanagan Mainline Municipal Association, with representatives from member communities, meets June 29 in Penticton. Topics for seminars on local government, also resolutions for the annual meeting of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, will also be discussed. Mayor Hilbert Roth and aldermen S. A. Hodge and Alan Moss are expected to attend.

For the second year in a row, a rare two-mouthed fish has been reported to the Courier. This one, a rainbow trout, was caught early Sunday in Oyama Lake by Donald Anders of Kelowna, on a fly. The fish was one of 12 shared by Mr. Anders and Victor Houle of Kelowna, who also hauled in an 18-inch weighing about three pounds.

Lt. Thomas Buchanauer, an executive officer with the 903 Squadron, British Columbia Dragoons, Kelowna Cadet Corps, has been posted to camp Vernon as acting captain for the summer. He assumed his training officer duties Sunday and will return Aug. 20.

Time Change Sought For Liquor Outlet

City council will suggest the liquor control board revert to previous policy of keeping the downtown liquor store open to 11 p.m. rather than the new store recently opened at Shops Capri.

The suggestion will be made in deference to residents in the neighborhood of the new store who Monday complained of squealing tires and other noise "which makes it impossible to sleep."

Attending council was R. A. Grainger, 1216 Briarwood Ave., who sought information from council as to what protection residents of the area "now have" following previous rezoning approval allowing extension of the Shops Capri centre.

The extension includes the new serve-yourself liquor outlet which inherited the night time hours of the downtown

The downtown outlet now closes at 6 p.m.

Many residents of the area objected to the shopping centre extension saying it would create additional traffic problems not conducive to a residential area.

In his presentation to council Monday, Mr. Grainger said his driveway is sometimes blocked by cars and "we are sure this problem will increase" once further planned development is complete.

Mr. Grainger also wondered what had happened to landscaping as stipulated in council's approval of the rezoning. Council was told also that a screening wall, part of the requirements, had been ultimately partially built on city property.

Aldermen stipulated that all requirements of the rezoning approval would have to be met and city administrator D. B. Herbert was instructed to investi-

Will Proceed With Details Leading To Construction

Preliminary plans for a community building and swimming pool near Spall Road were approved Monday at a closed session of city council.

Building committee chairman Ald. Alan Moss said the go-ahead to prepare construction drawings was also given.

The recreation building is one of three buildings planned to replace the Aquatic building, destroyed by fire in 1969. The swimming pool is the centennial project, for which money has been raised locally and grants will be made by the provincial and federal governments.

The recreation building and a tea-house pavilion in City Park, are to be constructed with a $750,000 loan from a special federal-provincial fund, and insurance from the Aquatic structure.

A building for senior citizens will be erected on the Kelowna Yacht Club parking lot with loan money and a special provincial grant.

Ald. Moss said the insurance company has insisted plans for the tea-house pavilion be presented at the same time as plans for the recreation building. Since the Aquatic building was in the park, the company gives priority to new facilities there.

The one-storey recreation building will contain about 25,000 square feet. The pool will be covered at present.

The assembly room will contain about 7,200 square feet, divisible in three. The gymnasium, containing about 5,400 square feet, will be higher than the rest of the building and will be visible in half.

Busier Time For Hospital

In-patient admissions at Kelowna General Hospital to date this year were 315 higher than for the same period in 1970, with 2,795 adults and children compared with 2,481 for the corresponding period last year.

The rise was also reflected in patient admissions for May, with 600 recorded last month compared with 567 in 1970. Out-patient traffic rose from 7,745 last year to 9,037 to date this year, with 1,862 recorded for May alone this year as against 1,726 for the same period in 1970.

Average days stay to date and during May was unchanged at 9.1, compared with 9.3 days stay for the same period in 1970 and 8.8 days for May last year. Patient days for both adults and children totalled 25,781 to date this year, as against 22,090 in 1970, with a slight rise from 5,051 in May to 5,150 days for that month this year.

There were 329 newborns admitted to date this year, compared with 286 for the same period in 1970, with 73 newborns admitted during May this year as against 50 for the same period in 1970.

Lane Work Needed

The lane between Harvey and Leon Avenues should be improved, council was told Monday.

Earlier council approved giving a special use permit to Day's Funeral Service Ltd. to use land at 511 Leon Avenue for parking. The company has agreed to comply with rules laid down by council.

Letters were sent to adjacent residents to see if there were any objections. A. Lucking, 530 Harvey Ave., said the lane was in poor condition now, and more traffic will make it worse.

City engineer Vince Borch said this lane is not in the 1971 reconstruction and paving schedule. Mayor Hilbert Roth said work could be done if needed.

There will also be a smaller meeting room and a kitchen. It will be planned so enlargements can be made later.

It is expected construction plans for this building and the tea-house pavilion will be ready in about six weeks. The loan stipulates construction must start by Oct. 1. It is hoped construction of the senior citizen building will also have started by then.

Initial plans were to put all buildings in city park. However, opposition from citizens forced council to change its mind.

Alf Butler Dies At 84

Funeral services will be held from The Garden Chapel, Wednesday at 11 a.m. for Alfred Henry Butler, of Kelowna, who died Sunday at the age of 84.

Mr. Butler was born May 7, 1887, in England and came to Canada, arriving in Saskatchewan in 1911. He was employed with the Canadian National Railways for a period of 40 years, 30 of which were spent in Hanley, Sask. Retiring in May 1951 he moved to Burnaby, B.C., and then to Kelowna in May 1957 where he resided until his recent death.

He was past president of the Saskatoon Local Brotherhood of Maintenance of Ways Employees, and was awarded the Half Century award in 1955.

Mr. Butler was also past master and county master of the Royal Orange Lodge, and a member of the CN Pensioners' Association, branch 9, Kelowna.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel; four sons, Edward in New Westminster, James in Saskatoon, Charles in Kelowna, Leslie in Kitchener; seven daughters, Mrs. C. Smith in Sydney, B.C., Mrs. W. H. Byers in Fort St. John, Mrs. E. O. Gust in Casselton, North Dakota, Mrs. J. L. Kain in Calgary, Mrs. J. Miron in Ottawa, Mrs. F. M. McCallum in Clarksburg, Indiana, and Mrs. T. R. Toblason in Ottawa; 44 grandchildren, 66 great grandchildren and four great great grandchildren.

Rev. Paul Robinson will conduct services with cremation to follow.

In lieu of flowers donations may be made to the heart fund.

Resignations Accepted

Resignations of two men from city committees were accepted with regret Monday night.

Peter G. McLoughlin, principal of Kelowna Secondary School, has resigned as chairman of the family division (provincial court) committee. He will be leaving Kelowna to become a district superintendent for the B.C. education department.

On recommendation of the committee, C. H. La Bounty, a school teacher, will replace him. L. B. Butcher, an insurance agent, left the traffic advisory committee because it is difficult for him to attend meetings. The committee will be asked to name someone else.

Elizabeth Lalonde Service Wednesday

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. for Elizabeth Viola Lalonde, 803 Lawson Ave., who died Sunday at the age of 77.

Mrs. Lalonde is survived by her husband Peter; one sister, Mrs. William Andrews in Calgary; two nieces and one nephew. One sister predeceased Mrs. Lalonde in 1970.

Prayers and rosary will be recited from Day's Chapel of Remembrance, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Rev. W. Eggen will conduct services with interment to follow in the Kelowna Cemetery.

Day's Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Regatta Agricultural Fair Something For Everybody

A "peaches and cream" contest is scheduled for the Kelowna Regatta.

Mrs. W. J. Sullivan, Regatta agricultural director, revealed some of her department's plans during the Monday meeting of the Kelowna International Regatta Association.

The agricultural fair is the first of its kind in Kelowna and Mrs. Sullivan is attempting everything possible to make it an overwhelming success.

Mrs. Sullivan's main concern at the moment is contestants, or-to be more precise-the lack of them. Although there is much interest, and many contestants in the home-made wines and photography sections of the fair, the areas of fruit and vegetables show much less enthusiasm and sparse contestants in the events.

You don't have to be a large-scale farmer to enter these divisions, stated Mrs. Sullivan, local backyard gardeners are "more than welcome" to enter these events, especially in the fruit, vegetable, and home cooking divisions.

Various divisions open to all interested entrants are: home cooking, needle craft, hobbies and handicrafts, fruit, vegetables, photography, children's section, junior and senior poster contest, for children 6 to 16 years, flowers, homemade wines, and 4-H home arts. Agricultural displays, kooky contests and country tours are also included in this year's agenda.

The "peaches and cream" contest is one example of a "kooky" contest. It will be for "teenagers" only, and will consist of entrants peeling peaches, then adding cream (supplied by a local business) and eating as many servings of peaches and cream as they can.

The person eating the most is, of course, proclaimed the winner. The city of Vernon will be entering a honey display this year, and Summerland has an ecology display planned. Mrs. Primrose Upton and the Kelowna Centennial Museum are providing the fair with displays of "pioneer equipment and utensils."

The fair also expects to receive a Department of Agriculture display from Cache Creek. Chief Noll Derricksan is in charge of the Indian Handicraft display, and will be supplying many of the handicrafts to be seen during Regatta.

A "cooking demonstration" for men will also be included in the events scheduled and will be conducted by a gentleman who is employed by one of the local department stores.

Mrs. Sullivan stated the prize list is coming in and will include both cash and merchandise prizes this year. Chicks or baby duck "available in any color" are expected to be another of the interesting displays.

Special Committee Expected To Study Sewage Proposals

Mayor Hilbert Roth will name a special committee of council this week to investigate and possibly set out policy relating to the cost of sewage facilities in high density residential development.

The move to study the matter followed the turning down of a request by Lund and Warren Realty Ltd. for rezoning property on a portion of Sutherland Avenue to permit development of an apartment complex.

Ald. Richard Stewart, saying he had no particular objection to apartment building in the area in question, expressed concern, however, that sewage facilities take on a much greater load in high density development.

"We end up paying at the other end to accommodate such projects," he said, "and I think we have to come up with some sort of policy where the cost of such rezoning is borne by the developer."

He reminded council of similar projects which had been turned down because of the load on sewage systems and said he did not feel non-acceptance of this application was unfair.

"There are other areas of the city already zoned for this type of development," he added. The committee would investigate the problems of cost sharing with a developer of sewage facilities to meet the extra need of high density development, both present and future.

Price Over Ceiling Set On Water Street Project

In an effort to speed demolition of an old building on Water Street, council has authorized an offer to buy land needed for putting in a new sidewalk. But the offer is $650 below the "final request" received from prospective developers of the area.

Through realty agents Caruthers and Melkie Ltd., Kelowna Motors Ltd., asked last month for the property known as the Jenkins Carriage building to be changed from community commercial-low rise to service commercial. They plan to demolish the structure and use the land to display automobiles.

Council agreed to submit the matter to a public hearing providing the company give a strip of land seven feet by 120 feet to the city, and pay for building a sidewalk, curb and gutter, with half to be reimbursed by the city.

Agent H. D. Tarves said this requirement might kill the deal. This started a round of negotiations between city administrator D. B. Herbert, Mr. Tarves and the buyers.

Last week Mr. Tarves said his clients would not accept less than $3,500. Council set a top price of $2,850.

Outstanding Consumer Credit In April Up By $110 Million

OTTAWA (CP) — Outstanding consumer credit rose by more than $110 million in April with the chartered banks loosening their lending activities to the tune of $81 million, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

Consumer credit outstanding at the end of the month totalled $8,876 million for the retailers, banks, and other organizations that report their figures to the bureau every month. Another $2,000 million or more was owing to other retail dealers, credit unions, and the oil companies for their credit card accounts.

The grand total of consumer credit outstanding at the end of March was $10,864 million. This was up modestly from $10,503 million a year earlier but below the peak $11,073 recovered last September.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson said in the background papers to his budget last week that consumer credit has been down, in relation to personal incomes, and that more consumer expenditure from bank balances and available credit could be an important spark in economic growth.

Reporting advance figures for April, subject to revision when more detail is available, the bureau reported that personal loans by the chartered banks rose to $4,871 million at the end of April from $4,790 million a month earlier. At the end of April last year they totalled $4,203 million.

Small cash loans by the sales finance and consumer loan companies continued to run slowly, probably showing resistance to high interest rates. They totalled $482 million outstanding at the end of April, compared with $565 million a year earlier.

TO THE BUDGET

Investment Houses React

By IRVING C. WHYNOT
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — The initial reaction from investment houses to last week's federal budget and tax reform measures is one of cautious confidence it will lead to a measure of stock market recovery.

There is general agreement that a prime boost will be given by ending the period of uncertainty which has hung over the market while the government formulated its tax policies.

This alone, they argue, should restore a degree of investor confidence and lead to a moderately bullish market for the remainder of this year and into 1972.

There is some disagreement on the extent of the stock market reaction and the timing.

Here is a summary of some of the early comments:

Merill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith Inc.: It seems reasonable that the expansionary nature of the budget and tax changes will have a favorable influence on the Canadian economy.

These measures should stimulate consumer demand and provide a basis for a positive departure from the hesitant performance of the economy and stock markets.

The near - to - intermediate-term prospects for Canadian stock markets have improved as a result of the budget moves.

Of overriding significance is the removal of the uncertainties that have hung over investors' decisions and activities for almost two years and the realization that the tax-reform achievements have fallen markedly short of original aspirations.

For the longer term, the built-in reductions in corporate tax rates will be an important positive factor for the markets.

The tax legislation provides a much better atmosphere for the private sector than did the white paper proposals and should lead to continued economic growth.

The budget proposals are obviously expansionary but the impact of this stimulus is likely to be concentrated in 1972 with the combined effects of the budget and tax legislation leading to rapid growth throughout 1972 and 1973.

However, the rapid growth will likely be accompanied by a rising rate of inflation and rising interest rates, which will require corrective action in 1973.

Burns Bros. and Denton Ltd.: Changes in fiscal policy are moderately bullish for the bond market.

The economy has been massively stimulated on the monetary front for many months and will obviously benefit from the moderately expansionary budgetary measures which should lead to vigorous economic growth in the last half of this year and into 1972.

AFFECT RIOTS

Some Berkeley Radicals Are Not On The Council

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Sticks and stones and broken bones and tear gas and it seemed Berkeley's young founding fathers of radicalism were doing their thing again.

Some were, but not all and that is what might have been significant in this cradle of protest.

Forty were arrested, eight injured in that riot on a Sunday last month. So? Berkeley has suffered from more than 70 riots, bombings and demonstrations in the last six years.

But things have changed. The radicals are not just on the streets. They now hold three of eight seats on the city council.

It would be hard to measure what effect this had on the latest riot. But it can be noted that it drew only 500 persons, compared with the more than 10,000 two years ago when the issue was the same—the "people's park," a two-acre tract on which the University of California built a parking lot after the young had illegally converted it into a recreation area.

One died and 900 were arrested in the first people's park riot in 1969.

And only a year ago Berkeley seemed to be propelled toward even more tragic open warfare across the generation gap. Young radicals by the dozens were arming themselves with rifles and pistols while underground bomb factories stepped up production.

Now the youthful radicals, ultra-liberals and self-professed leftists of a dozen stripes are part of the establishment. The recent city election saw three self-styled radicals win council seats together with Warren Widener, the city's first Negro mayor.

ULTRAS LOSE STRENGTH

"I think the latest people's park explosion shows just how deeply the strength of the ultra-radicals on the left has been eroded and how profoundly the mood has changed," said one political source.

A conservative businesswoman said: "Living in the city with the radicals will be hard, but I hate to think what the latest riot would have been like if the radicals had not won in the last election."

The times started changing last fall when an ultra-liberal Negro, Ronald V. Dellums, was elected congressman with help from young blacks and whites calling themselves liberals, leftists and non-violent radicals.

The predominantly white April Coalition, led by a young cadre with experience in the presidential campaigns of former senator Eugene McCarthy and the late Robert Kennedy, staged a voter registration campaign that raised the campus vote alone by 400 per cent. Horse trading between the far and very far left was done with deftness.

A joint slate was worked out with the Black Caucus that was pledged to instant revolutionary change. Many on the far left interpreted this to mean wholesale permissiveness. They were wrong.

When the three radical councilmen held a post-riot press conference, the message was hardly what the far left young might have expected.

D'Arcy Bailey, a 29-year-old Negro lawyer, in effect told the ultras to cool it. He said "we have an obligation to avoid these confrontations to work on more serious matters," which he said included housing, more jobs and overhauling the police. No. 1 target for the radical young.

And Ilona Hancock, a 30-year-old women's liberation activist, more or less echoed the sentiments. Mayor Widener deplored the riots.

Those who had hoped the radicals and Widener would temper their politics with pragmatism were encouraged.

The tactics of the April Coalition, as voiced by David Mundtstock, one of its leaders, sound pretty tough. "We saw victory could come only by attacking the enemy at the source of his power, in our case the city council."

TENSIONS REDUCED

"Tensions among the young have been going down steadily," said Jeff Gordon, another April Coalition leader. "The young here now are relatively optimistic about the future in contrast to 85 per cent of those in the country."

"The conservatives would be very shortighted not to work with us. Change is coming, violently or non-violently, but it's going to come. Our way is the non-violent way."

Prophets of doom were not hard to find in mid-April. John DeHonia, a peppy conservative who gave up his council seat to run for mayor, summed up the feelings of many this way:

"In two years (when the other four seats and one vacancy must be filled) the radicals will control it lock, stock and barrel. I see destruction."

But there now is a strong mood for reconciliation, or at least pragmatism, to keep the city from falling either into depression or chaos.

Somewhat surprisingly, a key figure working for acceptance of the new realities is George Conner, president of the city's Chamber of Commerce and manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., facilities which the radicals say they plan to force under municipal ownership.

"I'm hopeful we can work with the new people," Conner said, noting the feeling is not unanimous on the chamber board. "We are going to have to learn to live together."

He said he believes it quite possible that when the realities of municipal finance are driven home to the new councilors, they will be forced to moderate their election promises, which include child care clinics and health clinics and the like.

HUGE DEFICIT

Although a 4-4 split on the council has emerged from many early votes, Widener now tempers his victory hints that the radicals would get their way or simply bring the city government to a halt. The mayor is faced with a huge budget deficit just for a standstill operation and a state law prohibiting municipalities to go in the red.

"We can't work miracles in a matter of months," he said after one council meeting. "We have four years to do what the people elected us to do."

But the newly-elected may be more prisoners of their own rhetoric than the average politician. Many experts say today's young expect not only total and idealistic solutions to the world's problems, they want those solutions instantly. Otherwise they tend to abandon their leaders at the moment.

Storm signals already are flying from the ultra-radical left. Stew Albert said editorially in the underground newspaper, the Berkeley Tribe: "We should insist that the people's councilmen play out their part. As we, the authors, scribbled them in their dreams."

Those who know Berkeley don't rule out the possibility that ultras on the left may one day hit the streets to denounce "those who have betrayed them," as one commune member put it.

Among the super-radicals and many others the most popular goal for the new council is not the creation of new services but a change in Berkeley's tough police department.

The radicals got a proposition on the ballot that would have split the department into three segments, one for the student campus area, one for the black section and another for the whites. Each neighborhood would have had a large measure of control over its part of the force. The plan was swamped by a 2-to-1 vote against.

DEMAND RESIGNATION

Widener and the radicals have demanded the police chief's resignation, but since it would require six votes, they lack the muscle to get their way.

Even many of the who helped snow under the police proposition want department changes. Widener says change must come, perhaps through a special election.

Oddly enough, it is the Berkeley police department that may offer the best first step toward reconciliation across the generation gap. The establishment seems prepared to try to work together with what is, rather than a showdown, that somehow might return things to the way they were. The police could find themselves horse trading material.

In the interim, the mood of Berkeley appears to be wait and see.

With the constitutional amendment giving 18-year-olds the vote in California State and local elections moving toward final approval, the events in Berkeley's city hall may portend the setting of yet another national trend here.

Mundtstock and Gordon of the coalition say they already have been approached for help by other youthful political activists, especially from college communities in California and other states. The ballot box revolution will be exported, they claim.

June 22, 1971 . . .

United States forces landed in Cuba 73 years ago today—in 1898—after the sinking of the Maine in Havana Harbor and the consequent declaration of war on Spain. There had been bloody civil war on the island for 30 years and, while the inhabitants had made some gains (e.g., slavery was abolished in 1886) Spain had again suspended constitutional guarantees in 1895.

After the short war, the United States took over all Spain's Pacific and Caribbean colonies and withdrew from Cuba in 1902, retaining the right of intervention.

WORLD WATCHING FROM AN ARMCHAIR

SUCCULENT TALE

GREYMOUTH, N.Z. (AP) — A 46-foot trawler came upon a great migration of crayfish off this South Island town, and took aboard three tons in 70 minutes. In these occasional massive migrations of the succulent crustaceans, the crayms move about three miles a day.

CRAWLING RESPONSE

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — E. J. Smith, a civilian working at Goodfellow Air Force Base, has his own armored troops. When he walks onto the lawn and hangs on a tin dish that contains dog food, his armored warriors respond. They are 60 box turtles, also known as land terrapins.

LAUGHING MATTER

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The Dutch Telephone Company said its new dial-a-joke service was so popular it was considering doubling its stock of 24 recorded gags.

NEVER TOO OLD

BANGKOK (AP) — Observing that "one is too old to learn," a retired army Capt. Khun Pradit Pradit-Walhayak enrolled in a four-year university law course. He's 73.

BAN ORDERED

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The Chamber of Mines has banned cigarette advertising from trade newspapers and magazines that are distributed to the country's 440,000 mine workers.

YOUNG AT HEART

LONDON (CP) — Retiring brigadier James Bruner-Randall's divorce was made absolute within one month instead of the customary three months because the 81-year-old brigadier wished to re-marry. Counsel decided that at his age, he should have the opportunity of marrying as soon as possible.

ANGLER'S ANGEL

COLCHESTER, England (CP) — Essex fishermen have traced poachers stealing plump young trout from a newly-created reservoir—a shoal of fish-eating cormorants. Moving inland to feed in fresh water, the cormorants have made it impossible for the anglers to get a bite. So instead of carrying rods to the reservoir, the men take shotguns—to scare off their rivals.

Holding The Safety Line

In each of the last four years, more than 5,000 people have died and tens of thousands of others have been injured in traffic accidents on Canadian highways.

Every province has declared war on traffic accidents, but in the face of rapidly-increasing numbers of drivers and motor vehicles on the road, concerted efforts by provincial governments and safety organizations have only resulted in keeping the number of deaths about the same.

It is impossible to assess, however, how many more people would have died, or been injured, without the extensive safety programs, driver education, motor vehicle control legislation, better highways and higher manufacturing standards now insisted on by provincial governments and safety organizations. Their efforts have undoubtedly saved lives.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press showed that every province was attempting to reduce the number and gravity of accidents in its jurisdiction, and that some, notably Saskatchewan, appeared to be making visible progress—despite the growing clutter of people and cars.

A spokesman for the British Columbia Automobile Association says there were 116 traffic deaths in the province in 1945 when only 133,954 vehicles were registered. In 1969, when there were 989,196 vehicles registered there were 542 fatalities. The spokesman said this worked out to 11.32 deaths per 100 million miles in 1945 compared with 6.39 deaths in 1969. Thus, he says, safety programs are paying off.

For the last three years, traffic fatalities in Quebec have topped all other provinces. With 1,672 deaths in 1968, 1,709 in 1969 and 1,655 in 1970, the province has stepped up its inspection program of automobiles, is sponsoring safe-driving courses in conjunction with the junior chambers of commerce and has passed a bill providing for stiffer penalties for violations of traffic laws. The bill also provides for imprisonment of drivers convicted of exceeding the speed limit by 25 miles an hour or more. In 1970 2,396,212 cars were registered in Quebec, compared with 2,253,656 in 1969.

In Ontario, the provincial government set up its own highway safety department 15 years ago which now operates safety programs for everyone from nursery tots to senior citizens. In 1970, about 25,000 high school students completed driver training courses. During the last three years, Ontario has run a close second to Quebec in traffic fatalities with 1,535 deaths in 1970, 1,683 in 1969 and 1,586 in 1968. The highest death toll was 1,719 in 1967. In 1970, a total of 3,047,251 vehicles, including 2,376,421 passenger cars, were registered in Ontario, an increase of about 100,000 over 1969. A department of transport official says about 100,000 new vehicles and about 120,000 new drivers are registered in the province each year.

In Manitoba, under legislation that came into effect last October, new drivers get probationary licences and on conviction for any offence involving a moving vehicle, may lose their licences for up to one year. If a motorist drives his own car while his licence is suspended, he loses the auto for three months. If the car belongs to someone else, it is impounded for two weeks. About 300,000 cars were registered in Manitoba in 1970, an increase of about two per cent over 1969. In 1970, 159 people were killed in Manitoba, compared with 172 in 1969. The record year was 1967, when 201 people were killed.

The number of traffic fatalities in Saskatchewan has steadily decreased since 1967 when a record 292 persons were killed on the province's highways. In 1968 there were 265 deaths, compared with 240 in 1969 and 207 in 1970. Part of the decline is attributed to driver training programs in high schools, the introduction of defensive driving courses and better-marked highways. A total of 564,896 cars were registered in Saskatchewan in 1970, compared with 571,304 in 1969.

The Alberta Traffic Safety Council sponsors defensive driving courses throughout the province as well as traffic safety campaigns in larger towns and cities. A spokesman says the safety council has noticed an increase in fines and penalties for traffic violations, although no official policy statement to this effect has been issued. Other changes aimed at making Alberta's roads safer include burying guard rail ends to stop the spearing effect when a car crashes into them and reducing the number of light standards along highways. In 1970, 401 people were killed on Alberta highways, compared with a record 468 in 1969 and 430 in 1968. About 525,000 vehicles were registered in the province in 1970 and the number increases at a rate of about five per cent annually.

British Columbia has passed legislation which includes six classes of drivers' licences and the adoption of Canadian Standards Association specifications for tires, motorcycle drivers' headgear and mobile homes. Effective in September, the province will be divided into five zones, pending on the just used. They are: Zone 1, transport trucks more than 24,000 pounds; Zone 2, buses not carrying passengers; Zone 3, vehicles less than 24,000 pounds; and Zone 4, vehicles less than 24,000 pounds and of large heavy trucks. Zone 5, brought under must pass special and medical granted first-class there were 550,000 vehicles in 1969 and a record total of 1,050,000 in 1970, compared with 1,000,000 in 1969.

TO HELP BRITAIN

Package Offer For EEC Entry

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — The foreign ministers of the six Common Market countries were putting together a package offer today to ease Britain's entry into the European Economic Community.

The European ministers agreed on terms covering Britain's imports of butter and cheese from New Zealand and expected to agree to another meeting today on a sliding scale for Britain's financial contribution to the market budget.

As the ministers worked late Monday night, Prince Philip injected the monarchy into the bitter dispute in Britain over joining the Common Market. Philip said in a speech in Edinburgh, that the market's farm policies were in "a most frightful mess."

A British spokesman said the proposal for imports from New Zealand was "not entirely satisfactory," but Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann of France was adamant.

"There is no question whatever of resuming discussions on this text," he said. "It was approved unanimously and it is our last word."

The proposal provides for duty-free imports of New Zealand's dairy products to continue for a five-year transitional period, but with a gradual decrease to 66 per cent of the current levels by 1978. No cheese guarantee would be extended after 1978, and a unanimous decision by the ministers would be necessary to continue the butter quota unchanged.

Britain's current imports of New Zealand dairy products amount to 170,000 tons of butter and 75,000 tons of cheese annually.

A New Zealand diplomat described the proposal as better than the first offer that was expected, but he said the actual quantities are too small. But Geoffrey Rippon, Britain's Common Market negotiator, is reported to have said the proposal is entirely satisfactory.

The schedule for British payments to the Common Market treasury was expected to run about six to eight per cent of the community's budget for the first year or about $180 million to $244 million, rising gradually to about 20 per cent in 1977. After that the British contribution would be based on customs and tax receipts.

The other issue still outstanding, protection for British coastal fishermen, may not be settled at this negotiating session. But it is not expected to be a major obstacle if agreement is reached on the other points.

PHILIP SEES 'MESS'

Prince Philip's anti-market remark occurred in a speech to the Royal Agricultural Society of the Commonwealth. He said that once agriculture is considered an industry, it is natural to apply a "crude industrial philosophy" to farm problems and this produces "a frightful mess."

"I think this is something this country is about to discover if and when it joins the Common Market," he said.

Press Gallery Was Tricked By Benson Says de Wolf

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Conservative Leader John de Wolf says Finance Minister Benson has tricked the members of the Ottawa Press Gallery into giving the impression that the federal budget contains massive tax cuts.

"And he did it as easy as Willie Mays batting a home run in a little league game," Mr. de Wolf told a news conference Monday.

"At the televised gallery's news conference with the minister Friday the main question seemed to be the budget's effect on the calling of a federal election . . . The Press Gallery was not probing deeply enough."

The budget and the tax "reform" bill presented by Mr. Benson, he said, should be viewed separately, because they are separate documents.

NO STIMULATION

The budget is a key instrument to influence the economy, he pointed out, whereas the tax bill proposes tax changes that will not take effect until Jan. 1 at the earliest, the three-quarter mark of the current fiscal year covered by the budget.

"Far from being massive, or even generous," said Mr. de Wolf, the budget tax cuts are minimal and will do nothing to stimulate the economy.

Only $30 extra will go into the pockets of the average family, he claimed.

"Taken at present rates of increase in the cost of living, that $30 will be more than wiped out by inflation, so that the net effect of the government's actual tax cuts and its management of the economy related to inflation will leave the average family worse off."

Mr. Benson's combining of the budget and the tax change bill was a "deliberate propaganda device" on the finance minister's part, Mr. de Wolf charged.

RAPS PAYMENTS

He said that while the budget contains little in tax reductions, it does include massive additional spending by Ottawa—$1.3 billion more, to create a $750 million deficit.

Included in the extra spending is an increase of $600 million in transfer payments to provinces, most of which, said Mr. de Wolf, will be in equalization payments to the "have not" provinces "of which at least 60 per cent will go to the government of Quebec."

He said he is now taking up Premier Bennett's attack on Ottawa's heavy equalization payments to Quebec.

He said that as a long-standing defender of Quebec and of Quebec's right to "feel at home in Confederation," he never thought he would be going on the attack in this manner.

However, Mr. Bennett, at last week's opening of the federal-provincial conference, had "rudely and crudely — but accurately" criticized the direct payment to the Quebec government of huge equalization payments.

Of the extra $600 million in transfer payments, B.C. will be paying about $120 million as a "have" province, Mr. de Wolf said.

He said he has written to Mr. Benson asking for details of just where the extra $600 million is going.

"It is absolutely essential to know to what extent we are financing the government of Quebec," he said.

"It is a Liberal government, but apparently in Trudeau's mind a weak government."

Announce New Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Emergency In Bolivia

LA PAZ (Reuter) — The Bolivian government has imposed a state of emergency, which the country's interior minister said was to thwart a reported right-wing plot to overthrow President Juan Torres.

The state of emergency, declared Monday night, also prevents a meeting of workers, peasants and students from being held as planned later today.

Interior Minister Jorge Gallardo told reporters that troops believed loyal to Gen. Torres are moving into La Paz.

He added that reports indicate the plot against the government was apparently centred in Cochabamba, the country's second largest city 131 miles southeast of La Paz.

A series of imminent coup reports have been circulating in La Paz since Friday.

Toronto Ports Being Picketed

TORONTO (CP) — Pickets were reported at entrances to all four Toronto port terminals early today as the International Brotherhood of Teamsters tried to close the port in a move to shut out non-union trucking.

Port police said about 10 pickets were stationed at one terminal and it was thought a similar number were at each of the others.

The trucking union claims that low-wage, price-cutting truckers are taking business from union firms.

William Reilly, Teamsters Local 938 organizer, said non-union firms are paying $1.50 an hour less than the union rate of $3.80.

Local 938 set up information pickets at the terminal entrances in hopes that members of the International Longshoremen's Association would respect them.

The Teamsters have the support of I.L.A. President Thomas (Teddy) Gleason.

Sunshine Blesses Wedding Of Okanagan Mission Couple

Bouquets of white peonies mixed with yellow lilies graced St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Okanagan Mission, on the afternoon of June 12th, when Maureen Cathy Haskett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Haskett, became the bride of Gordon Walter Savage, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Savage, all of Okanagan Mission. The yellow and white color scheme was continued with yellow and white chrysanthemums on the altar, and white satin bows centred with yellow pascies decorating the pews.

Rev. Donald Kidd officiated at the ceremony, and Mrs. Robert C. Aitkens was the organist.

The dark-haired bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long white gown of peau de sole with high neckline and full-length sleeves of medieval styling. The back featured tiny peau de sole-covered buttons from neck to waist, and a train. A jewelled effect at the waistline was captured by the wearing of a narrow sash of pearly lures trim, finished with beaded tassels, knotted loosely in the front and falling to the hemline. The simplicity of the gown was continued in the cow-like headpiece which was also made of peau de sole. The only jewelry worn was a tiny silver and gold locket, a gift of the groom, and a white cascade bouquet of phenanopsis orchids and stephanotis was carried.

For "something old and borrowed", the bride carried a lace-trimmed handkerchief lent to her by her great aunt, Mrs. J. D. Gemmill, and originating with a family friend more than 85 years ago. The traditional blue garter was also worn.

Denise Haskett, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and was gowned in a similarly styled long dress of primrose-yellow peau de satin with beaded sash en-tone. She wore a headband of white daisy mums and carried a matching bouquet.

The bridesmaids were Karen Bulman of Okanagan Mission, and Denise Gaudry of Vancouver. Their gowns were once again the same styling but in a slightly deeper shade of yellow. Their headpieces and bouquets were also made of white daisy mums, and all the bride attendants wore gold, engraved bracelets, gifts of the bride.

Larry Powell of Kelowna officiated as the bestman, and ushers were Donald Knox of Okanagan Mission, and William Salter of Vancouver.

The beautiful theme from "Love Story" was played by

MR. AND MRS. GORDON SAVAGE

Mrs. Aitkens during the signing of the register, and Pipers James Arthur and Archie Duke of Kelowna piped the bride and bridegroom out of the church, and again during the garden reception which was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Haskett received wearing a coat-dress ensemble of candy-green fortrel with sand-colored hat and accessories, and a corsage of white gladioli. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a mauve coat-dress ensemble with hat en-tone, and white accessories, and her corsage was a single white gardenia. Mrs. Glen Rea, sister of the groom, presided at the guest book.

The bride's table, covered with a white Damask linen cloth, was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake which had been made and beautifully decorated by Mrs. Daniel Dullk, a friend of the bride's family. It was topped with sugar bells, satin ribbon, and sprigs of lily-of-the-valley. Heavy silver candlesticks holding white tapers flanked the cake, which were also decorated with lily-of-the-valley. Mrs. D. C. MacDonald, Mrs. T. B. Upton, Mrs. C. R. Bull, and Mrs. John Harker presided at the silver tea services during the reception.

Lieut.-Col. J. D. Gemmill proposed the toast to the bride. Mr. Powell, the bestman, toasted

ANN LANDERS

Men Have More Muscles But Women Live Longer

Dear Ann Landers: The other evening a group of us were talking about Women's Lib. Someone made the point that a great many females want the same privileges that men enjoy, yet they wish to be treated like ladies. In other words, they want the best of both worlds. A physician made the point that females are biologically stronger than males and since this is a scientific fact, the social amenities should be reversed. Men should be given the seats in the bus and women should stand. They should also be given the first lifeboats, the blankets, the precious water, etc. In other words, the motto should be changed to: "Men and children first."

Are women physically stronger than men, or is this a myth? Please give us the facts, Ma'am—Novice in Nebraska.

Dear Neb.: Nature has decreed that the male, generally speaking, is larger and more muscular, so in that sense he is physically stronger. BUT women are better able to tolerate exposure to heat and cold, starvation, and shock. Women are also less susceptible to baldness, color blindness, skin cysts, stomach ulcers and heart attacks. It is a well known fact that women live longer than men.

There is a genetic rationale for these differences, according to some scientists. Females have two X chromosomes in their sex cells. Males have one X chromosome and one Y chromosome. The Y chromosome is considered inferior. These are the scientific facts. Make of them what you will!

Dear Ann Landers: I was incensed by the man who referred to the people who write to you as "nutty creeps." At least the people who write to Ann Landers are searching for answers. They are concerned folks, willing to admit they need help.

The people who are in real trouble are the ones who don't know they need help—or are too proud to ask. I'm frank to admit that when I first started to read your column I thought it was odd that so many people would pour out their troubles to a stranger but I have come to understand that they consider you a friend—just as I do now.

Another thing. It makes me mad when people tell you to drop dead and get lost. This usually happens when you don't agree with them. I hope this doesn't hurt your feelings.

HITHER and YON

Summer visitors with Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Lewis of Abbots Street are their son Clive and his bride, the former Doris Patterson, who were married in Toronto in May. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis travelled to Toronto for the wedding and spent some time in Vancouver on their return journey before returning home to Kelowna in time to welcome the honeymooners.

Out-of-town guests attending the preview of the Nesta Bowen Home exhibition of water colors and batiks were: Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hooge of Boston, Mass., Tony Onley of Vancouver, a well known artist and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Onley of Winfield.

An Oyama guest at the preview was Mrs. A. J. Mann.

A delightful coffee party was held at the home of Mrs. R. M. MacKenzie, Pandosy Street, on Saturday morning honoring Mrs. Phyllis M. Sutton, who is leaving Kelowna. Some 15 members of the Dr. W. J. Knox Chapter, IOOE, gathered to wish Mrs. Sutton happiness in her new home in Chilliwack.

Colleagues Honor Three Teachers At Evening Banquet Ceremony

About 82 teachers and district staff from School District 23 attended a banquet on Thursday at the El Toro to honor and pay tribute to three of their colleagues. George Snowden acted as chairman and Tom Carter represented the School Board.

The three retiring teachers honored and presented with gifts from the Kelowna Teachers' Association were Mrs. Robert (Emma) Hare, Mrs. Wilfred (Frances) Klein and Mrs. Edward (Kay) Taylor.

During the proceedings, Emil Gundrum reviewed some of the highlights of Mrs. Hare's early teaching days on the Prairies. He concluded his remarks by saying that Mrs. Hare's work with children will continue as she has accepted a position with the Okanagan Regional Library in the Children's Art Exhibit section. She herself is a talented artist as well.

Mrs. Klein, who has been a home economics teacher at Kelowna Secondary for the past few years, is a fairly newcomer to the area. However, Mrs. Dick (Margaret) Gellert, a fellow staff member, told the gathering that her warmth and enthusiasm as a person endeared her to both pupils and teachers alike.

Receiving the guests with Mrs. MacKenzie were Rose Mary King and a niece of Mrs. MacKenzie, Susan MacKenzie of Calgary.

On behalf of the chapter, Miss King presented the guest of honor with a dainty dish, with the IOOE crest inscribed on it and read a very appropriate poem composed by one of the members.

Mrs. Sutton will be greatly missed by the members as she often made the meetings interesting with displays of audio machines for deaf children and her own personal hobby of driving racing vintage models.

Mr. and Mrs. George Walker have returned to their East Kelowna home after a trip to California. They spent a few days with their daughter, Val Cahill in Vancouver before flying to San Francisco where they were met by Vera Walker, who drove them to San Jose to meet Archie Walker to enjoy a reunion. The memorable event was the first reunion the Walkers had in 52 years.

Kinsmen And Kinette Awards Presented At Installation

The Ursula Kolbe trophy to the most outstanding Kinette of the year went to Mrs. Percy Tinker of the Kelowna Kinette Club. The presentation, made by Mrs. Walter Axelson, took place during the joint installation banquet and dance on Friday at Capri.

The Haddad merit trophy to the outstanding Kinsman of the year presented by Ken Harding went to Percy Tinker, who is the Deputy Governor for the Okanagan-Mainline zone.

Registrar for the Kinsmen, Les Baird presented attendance awards. Top attendance went to Robert Koenig for 16 years perfect attendance and 11 years to Monty DeMara, Allan Ribelin and Ray Busch.

The toast to the ladies was given by Ron Bertuzzi and replied to by Mrs. Fred Behrner. Alderman Walter Green, acting mayor for the month of June, brought greetings on behalf of the city.

Kinette executive for 1971-72 installed for the year by Mrs. Tinker were: president, Mrs. Walter Axelson; past president, Mrs. Ernest Day; vice-president, Mrs. James Lidster; secretary, Mrs. Lawrence Olynick; treasurer, Mrs. Roy Phillips; registrar, Mrs. Jack Wilson; directors, Mrs. Fred Behrner and Mrs. Dennis Denney and bulletin editor, Mrs. James Tooley.

Kinsmen executive installed were: president, Jim Lidster; vice-president, Roy Phillips; secretary, Eric Tasker; treasurer, Les Baird; registrar, Lawrence Olynick; directors, Fred Behrner, Ray Langford, Hugh Mervyn, Andrew Nemeth and bulletin editor, Dennis Denney.

Study On Day Care Centres Points Out Costs To Taxpayer

OTTAWA (CP) — The taxpayer is beginning to take to the idea of day care as a community social utility but he may win at the cost, a study released Sunday suggests.

The study, done for the Canadian Council on Social Development, says the changing role of women reflected in increasing numbers of working mothers of pre-school children has led to growing support of day care as a utility.

But, for this approach to be effective, public money comparable to the amount spent for public education would have to be injected.

"Indeed it might be strategic to transfer the administration of day-care services from welfare to education in the interests of better access to the public purse and the development of stronger community support," the study says.

It was important that day care legislation and services give priority to safeguarding the interests of children and families rather than accommodating the needs of the labor market.

ONTARIO LAW BEST The study, which outlines day-care legislation now in Canada, calls Ontario's Day Nurseries Act of 1966 "the most complete and comprehensive in Canada."

It provides specific requirements on facilities, administration, programs, food, play space, equipment, sanitation and health.

the capital costs of establishing centres. Although the province assumed 80 per cent of costs of day-care services for persons in need, existing services fell far short of the need and were unevenly distributed.

The study says there is no legislation on day care in Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Quebec. Aside from Ontario, only Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia administer day care under a single statute.

British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Nova Scotia provide funds for operating costs and Alberta and Saskatchewan provide funds of establishing centres.

Only Ontario, Nova Scotia and British Columbia have legislation on day-care services for infants.

Blue Halfway To Thirty But Not Really Counting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vida Blue is going for a 30-game season, but he's not really counting.

The sensational Oakland left-hander won his 15th game of the season Monday night, setting down Minnesota Twins 3-2 with a 13-strikeout performance that increased the Athletics' American League West lead to eight games over second-place Kansas City Royals, who lost 5-1 to Chicago White Sox.

Elsewhere Monday night, Baltimore Orioles ripped Washington Senators 7-2 and Milwaukee Brewers nipped California Angels 3-2 in 10 innings. Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians were rained out and the other teams were not scheduled.

Blue's workmanlike job on the Twins moved him halfway to 30 victories, a fact that doesn't impress the cool youngster. "At the end of the season, we'll see what I've got," he said. "Whatever it is, I'll be satisfied."

LEADS MAJORS

What Blue has right now is a major-league-leading 146 strikeouts, 15 complete games in 19 starts and a 15-2 record. He allowed just seven hits against Minnesota, but only one after the fifth inning.

The Twins nipped Oakland's ace for three hits and both their runs in the third inning, giving rookie Ray Corbin a 2-1 lead. The Athletics tied it on Mike Epstein's double and singles by Sal Bando and Dave Duncan in the sixth and then scored the deciding run in the seventh when Minnesota catcher George Mitterwald threw wild on a delayed double steal.

The last man to win 30 games was Denny McLain in 1968 and the controversial right-hander could reach 30 again this season, but on the wrong side of the ledger.

Washington's McLain lost his eighth straight and 13th in 17 decisions as Baltimore belted him for 16 hits.

Boog Powell, who was batting .178 before the game, cracked three singles and a double and drove in three runs for the Orioles. Paul Blair also had four hits and drove in one run and Frank Robinson knocked in three with two hits for the Birds, who lead the East Division by 5½ games over Detroit Tigers.

Mike Andrews raced home all the way from a second on a strikeout for the tie-breaking run and Chicago went on to whip Kansas City behind Tommy John.

Andrews walked in the second and moved upon an infield out. When the third strike on Luis Alvarado got past catcher Jerry May, Andrews took off and scored as May threw Alvarado out at first base. Andrews later doubled home another Chicago run in the eighth.

Roberto Pena tied the game with a ninth-inning single and then drove in Milwaukee's winning run in the 10th with another hit as the Brewers topped California.

Stargell Continues Pace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie Stargell isn't one to put a face before a figure—at least not on a baseball scoreboard.

Stargell, pleased with the new likeness of him which appears on the electronic scoreboard at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium, socked his 25th home run of the season Monday night as the Pirates widened their National League East Division lead by whipping the second-place New York Mets 6-0.

"They had me looking like a gorilla up there before," the slimmer-down slugger said after his two-run blast helped the Pirates move 4½ games ahead of the Mets. "My face was so big there was no room on the scoreboard for my statistics."

Stargell's statistics continue to mount. He leads the majors in homers and runs batted in, with 67, and is hitting a solid .311.

In other games, rookie Bobby O'Brien outpitched returning veteran Bob Gibson as Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed St. Louis Cardinals 4-0, Philadelphia Phillies topped Cincinnati Reds 5-3 in 12 innings and Atlanta Braves split a doubleheader with Montreal Expos, winning 6-4 before a 5-3 loss.

After the twin bill, the Braves released 47-year-old reliever Hoyt Wilhelm, the all-time leader in pitching appearances with 1,045 in 20 major league seasons.

Pittsburgh's Dock Ellis stymied the Mets on eight scattered hits to reel off his ninth straight victory and become the National League's biggest winner with an 11-3 mark.

"When I'm hitting, it doesn't matter whether the pitcher is lefty or righty," said Stargell.

Pittsburgh's Bob Robertson set a major league record for first baseman with eight assists. O'Brien, making his first start in the majors after nine relief stints, shackled the Cardinals on six hits. Gibson, back on the mound for the first time since May 29, when he went on the disabled list with arm trouble, was clipped for three runs and six hits before leaving for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

DAVIS CONNECTS

Willie Davis drilled a single, double and his third homer to drive in two Los Angeles runs.

Willie Montanez's two-run triple in the 12th carried the Phillies past the Reds, handing winless Jim Merritt his ninth setback of the season.

Hank Aaron belted his 20th home run and Mike Lum, Hal King and Darrell Evans also homered in an eighth-inning barrage that brought Atlanta from behind in its opener against the Expos.

Montreal fought back to gain a split when Ron Hunt doubled home the last two of three eighth-inning runs.

WCHL Approves BCJHL Move

SASKATOON, Sask. (CP) —

Delegates to the Western Canada Hockey League annual meeting were told Monday the league plans to expand into British Columbia this fall with the addition of teams from Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster.

The move would increase the league by two teams to 12. New Westminster would receive a franchise vacated by Estevan, Sask., Bruins.

Other teams in the league are from Flin Flon, Winnipeg, Regina, Brandon, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Swift Current, and Medicine Hat.

Entrance of the three teams still requires approval of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association.

Ben Hatskin of Winnipeg, chairman of the WCHL board of governors, said that all obstacles must be removed before the new clubs become official members of the league.

A vote by the WCHL on entrance of the three B.C. clubs passed the required two-thirds majority Monday.

Hatskin announced at the league meeting that the WCHL will have a new constitution. Most provisions were approved Monday.

CONFIDENCE VOTE?

Meanwhile, Ron Butlin, who resigned after three years as president of the league, said he is certain he would have received a vote of confidence from league officials if he'd asked.

He said in an interview that he resigned because "I was not prepared to alter certain principles which I felt very strongly about just for the sake of the league."

Butlin would give no specific details of his reasons for resigning except to say he would not "deal in the areas of strife with people of deceit."

Butlin had one year remaining in a contract with the league. He said he was not forced to resign.

"I don't want to knock the league. And I force great things for the WCHL as long as people don't become too aggressive too soon."

Naming a successor was expected to occupy a large portion of today's sessions, along with proposed expansion of the league.

We're very pleased to announce the official opening of our new corrugated container plant in Kelowna. Obviously, it's good business for us. And, as the only plant of its kind in the area, it will help us to improve our service to Okanagan industry and agriculture. Which is good business for everybody. But it's also good business for everybody. Think about it. It pumps a whole new payroll into the Okanagan, bringing our employee force for the area to 925 — and the annual payroll to around $10 million.

That's an important slice of the income of the entire community. We took care to be good neighbours when we built our new plant. That's why we designed it to fit into the landscape, and installed the best and most effective effluent treatment systems that science can devise. We're pleased with our new plant, and we want our neighbours to be as pleased as we are.

We're opening something interesting in the Okanagan.

You should look into it.

Come and tour our plant, and enjoy a loggers' sports show.

Inside the plant we'll show you the impressive machines that score, slot, fold, punch, cut, glue, print — and produce thousands of intricate corrugated containers every hour. You'll look at a corrugated carton with a new respect after you see what it takes to make one. We guarantee you'll find it interesting.

At the loggers' sports, we'll entertain you with other skills: axe-throwing, hand and power-saw bucking, and chopping. We're sorry, but for safety reasons, only children aged 12 years or more can be permitted to tour the plant.

HEATH

First Birthday Is All Gloom

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Heath's government was elected a year ago Friday but the Conservatives were not breaking out anniversary champagne.

"All gloom on Ted's first birthday," said a headline in The Sun, and that about summed it up.

Apart from a depressing employment, industrial and prices picture, the birthday blues were accentuated by returns Thursday night from a Commons by-election in the Middlesex constituency of Hayes and Harlington in which Labor held the seat by a margin just about doubled from last June.

Political commentators were generally agreed that the Tories have not chalked up any major achievements in their first year, though noting that Heath told the country before the election that his program was one intended for the full five-year run of Parliament.

Possibly the roughest was John Dickinson, political editor of the Conservative-leaning Evening News, who wrote:

"Government by botch-up under Harold (Wilson) has been replaced by government by botch-up under Ted."

Anthony Shrimley, political editor of The Sun, says a major blow to Heath's standing was the government's decision announced Thursday to defer until autumn a parliamentary decision on the controversial British entry into the European Common Market.

Heath had been understood to have been pushing within the cabinet for a summer vote, despite a major split in his own

North Repulses Ground Attack

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces, repulsed in an early-morning ground attack, hit a besieged South Vietnamese artillery base just south of the demilitarized zone with a heavy mortar barrage Monday night.

Field reports said more than 300 mortar rounds hit Firebase Fuller, atop an 1,800-foot mountain four miles south of the DMZ. A spokesman said casualties among the defenders were light, with none killed.

Two U.S. bases along the southern edge of the buffer zone also came under attack, but no casualties were reported.

Spaceship Docking Systems Discussed By Russia, U.S.

HOUSTON (AP) — Discussions here by United States and Soviet experts on building common spaceship docking systems is a major step toward co-operation and could signal an end to 14 years of intense competition between the two space powers.

All competition, especially in military space projects, will not cease in the foreseeable future, but encouraging strides are being made in many areas.

A 20-man team of Russian scientists, engineers and a cosmonaut flew to Houston Sunday night for five days of conferences to set guidelines for future sessions of the docking apparatus.

The Soviets and Americans are broken into three working groups to consider:

1. Compatibility of over-all methods and means of rendezvous and docking.
2. Compatible radio, guidance and optical systems.
3. Docking assembly and transfer tunnels.

COULD INVOLVE RESCUE

Although the purpose of developing common docking mechanisms is not spelled out in the agreement, a primary reason would be earth-orbit rescue missions. Eventually, this capability could be used in joint space exploration, with scientists, engineers and medical specialists of both countries working together in orbiting laboratories.

In another co-operative endeavor the two nations exchanged moon samples June 10. The Russians got six grams of material collected by the Apollo 11 and 12 astronauts, and the Americans received three grams picked up by the unmanned Luna XVI.

It hasn't always been so. From the time Russia ushered in the space age with Sputnik I in 1957, the Soviet and American space programs have been the national barometers of technical expertise and have

Signal Indicates Soviet Space Ship

BOCHUM, West Germany (AP) — The Bochum Observatory said today it was picking up a new radio signal that could indicate another manned Soviet space ship had been sent up to join the Salute space laboratory. Director Heinz Kaminski said the new signal was picked up on a frequency normally used by manned Soviet pace vehicles. He said the signal was first heard at 10:49 p.m. EDT Monday and the object apparently had made three orbits of the earth.

RECORD SOVIET BLAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seismic signals which the Atomic Energy Commission presumes were caused by a Soviet underground nuclear explosion were recorded in the United States Saturday, the AEC said Monday. The signals, the AEC said, were equivalent to those of an underground nuclear explosion in the range of 20 to 200 kilotons.

IT'S NOT A CAR —IT'S A BUS

NYACK, N.Y. (AP) — What drew Patrolman Philip Human's interest was the three children riding in the trunk of the sedan.

But his interest turned to incredulity when he stopped the car near here and counted its occupants. They numbered 25, he said.

Police said driver Salvador Caban, 47, of Brooklyn, and his passengers were returning from an outing at Bear Mountain State Park. Eight persons were in the front seat, 14 in the rear and three in the trunk.

Caban, who police noted has only one arm, was given a summons on a charge of operating a vehicle with more than three adults in the front seat.

been used as political ploys and pawns.

The competition was intense as the two nations charged on parallel paths toward landing men on the moon. The Soviets, far behind, gave up the moon race in 1968 and shifted attention to developing a manned space laboratory, the forerunner of which now is orbiting earth with three cosmonauts.

U.S. GIVES INVITATIONS

The United States between 1958 and 1970 issued 25 invitations to the Soviet Union to co-operate in various space ventures. But only two bilateral agreements resulted, in 1962 and 1965.

They covered satellite meteorology, communications, geomagnetic surveying and space biology and medicine. Only the one in space biology and medicine has produced any significant exchange of data, and that did not begin until last year when medical scientists of the two nations began jointly writing a three-volume book on the subject.

Last year the Soviet attitude began to change and a spirit of co-operation bloomed. It was first shown in the greater amount of data presented by Russians scientists at international space meetings.

The shift can be attributed to many factors—a sudden rash of Russian space successes, coupled with a reduction in the U.S. program, a rapport which has existed for years between U.S. and Russian scientists; a slight change in the over-all political climate; a realization that space exploration is expensive and that sharing would cut the costs, and the personal initiative of Thomas A. Paine, former administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Paine began his campaign in April 1969, with a letter to Anatoly A. Blagonravov of the Soviet Academy of Sciences. Paine outlined several possible space projects in which the nations could co-operate or co-ordinate.

SUGGESTED APPARATUS

Several meetings followed, and a year later, Paine met Blagonravov in New York and suggested the common docking apparatus as a starter.

A formal letter written in July to the Soviets was answered Sept. 11, and the agreement was signed in Moscow last October.

This was followed in January by the signing of another far-reaching document that included agreement on trading lunar samples. It also calls for discussions leading to greater exchange of data on space biology and medicine and weather information; sharing of data on scientific, lunar and planetary flights; co-ordination of research with meteorological sounding rockets; and techniques for studying the earth's environment from space.

Bomb Threatens Official's Home

LONDON (Reuters) — A bomb exploded at the home of the managing director of the Ford Motor Co. here early today.

First reports said no one was injured.

A girl, who telephoned the British news agency, Press Association, said she represented the "Angry Brigade" and added: "We have just got Fords and the bosses."

The "Angry Brigade" is a self-styled anarchist movement that has claimed responsibility for several bomb attacks on the homes of politicians and others.

Bomb experts and police immediately began examining the scene of the explosion at the home of managing director William Batty, in Blackmore, in the eastern outskirts of London.

The explosion came after a decision by Fords to locate a new engine plant in the U.S. and not Britain, partly because of industrial troubles here. It was not immediately known whether there was any connection.

Gene MacLellan Planning Only Few Summer Concerts

HALIFAX (CP) — If Gene MacLellan has his way, it's going to be a quiet summer at his home 25 miles outside of Charlottetown.

There won't even be a telephone to disturb him and his wife of five months, Claudia, as he concentrates on his favorite pastime—songwriting.

There will be a few concerts at the Confederation Centre in Charlottetown and an appearance at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto and maybe one or two television shows. But only a few.

"I just can't express myself with words unless I'm writing them down," the lanky composer said here recently during a break in the taping of CBC's Sing Along Jubilee. "Man, I can't think on my feet."

Viewers of shows like Sing-along Jubilee and Nashville North and fans who have attended his infrequent concerts will probably disagree. But they don't know what the 33-year-old composer of hits like Snowbird and Hand in the Hand goes through when the lights go on.

"The bright lights. Wow. They're far out. I get stage fright out in front of an audience. It's like I'm being crucified."

Song writing hasn't always been a way of life for Gene MacLellan. He only started writing in 1966 and only gained national attention in 1970. Before that, it was a long, rough road.

The first stumbling block for the reserved young writer was a case of polio as a child after his family moved to the Toronto area from Val d'Or, Que. Those were the days before the Salk vaccine, and he suffered further effects from the disease when he was nine.

As a teen-ager he played with rock bands throughout Ontario in stuffy school gymnasiums and in ramshackle dance halls. He played with bands whose names are long forgotten—until he was injured in an automobile accident coming home from one of his countless appearances.

Following the accident, of which he is constantly reminded by a patch over his left eye, he left Ontario and show business for Prince Edward Island, where he just wanted time to think and figure out where he was headed.

Three CMHC Loans For B.C. Projects

OTTAWA (CP) — Loans totaling $404,500 for three construction projects in British Columbia have been announced by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. They are:

—$160,000 to assist in the construction of a 12-unit housing development for elderly persons in Vernon.

—$265,000 to assist in the construction of sewage treatment plant and associated facilities in the District of Port Hardy.

—And $78,500 to assist in construction of two sewage pumping stations, forcemains and gravity sewers in the Village of South Fort George.

Social Policy Ruling Poses Problem-PM

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Sunday the provinces and the federal government agreed in principle at the Victoria constitutional conference that Quebec should have priority in legislating social policy.

Mr. Trudeau said, however, the problem was more complicated than it seemed on the surface.

"If a federal law says we give federal allowances to large families and we do so, and a provincial law forbids large families to receive federal allowances, does the federal law become invalid," Mr. Trudeau asked.

"I really don't know, because I cannot say what the courts would decide, but I am ready to take the risk."

He was replying to a question by Claude Ryan, editor of the Montreal daily Le Devoir, in an interview on CFMT-TV, a Montreal French-language private television station.

Mr. Trudeau said Mr. Bourassa wanted provincial legislation to prevail in the event of a conflict between the two levels of government in social policy.

Ontario Agrees To Accept
New Constitutional Charter

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government has agreed to accept the constitutional charter drafted at Victoria, B.C. last week "in its entirety," Premier William Davis announced Monday in the legislature.

Mr. Davis said the decision to endorse the charter calling for a major constitutional reform was made at a full cabinet meeting last week.

Mr. Davis said he will inform the federal secretary of the constitutional conferences of Ontario's decision "as soon as possible."

The provincial and federal governments have until June 28 to either reject or accept the new charter. A veto by any of the governments could void the charter.

Mr. Davis said when and if all of the governments approve the charter it will be presented to the Ontario legislature for full debate.

The premier tabled in the legislature the charter, a statement of conclusions reached at the Victoria federal-provincial conference, and a statement he made to the meeting of premiers and federal government officials.

Cysts On Kidneys
Need Attention

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a cyst on one of my kidneys. Is it necessary to remove it promptly or can it be left alone for a time?

Is it likely to enlarge quickly? The X ray showed the cyst to be about the same size as the kidney.

Is there any medicine that will reduce it in size? In an operation, is all of the kidney removed or just part of it? —K. A. E.

A cyst can occur in a gland or other organ that secretes material of some other kind. If the outlet becomes plugged, the material cannot escape, and the gland or organ enlarges.

In the kidneys, there may be a single cyst, or a number of smaller ones. The average kidney is about as big as your clenched fist, so if your cyst is really as large as the kidney, that's a pretty large one.

There is no medicine that will reduce a cyst's size; a cyst tends to enlarge (although the speed of this is not totally predictable, it is slow).

Such a cyst isn't necessarily removed just because it is there, but it is a sufficiently involved matter that you'd best be guided by your physician's advice.

As a cyst enlarges, it may not bother you — and then again it may. Headache is a common symptom of a kidney cyst. The cyst may grow until it is an obvious mass in the abdomen and cause enough crowding to create discomfort. There may be bleeding from cysts, which can contribute to anemia. Finally, a cyst can become infected.

Ordinarily surgery deals with removal of the cyst, not the kidney, but this is a question that must be answered on the basis of further information, particularly evaluation of the kidney itself. If it is functioning adequately, why remove it? If it is not functioning, then why leave it to be a threat of further trouble.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor tells me I have cholesterol in my blood. What diet do you suggest as best to reduce the "way above normal" amount? —Mrs. B. S. P.

For the person whose cholesterol is only mildly elevated, moderate care in diet is sufficient — there's no use going on rigid, restrictive diets.

But for the person whose cholesterol is "way above normal," it's time to take stock of high-cholesterol foods and saturated fats and start limiting them. Along with this, if you are overweight, getting rid of the excess pounds is important. It also is important to get adequate exercise, which has a bearing on your cholesterol level.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does a change in stool color (black) need medical checking? I thought it might be from a medicine I was taking, but now it goes back and forth and is a mixture of colors, so it can't be the pills, I presume. —Mrs. T. W.

Some medications, and some foods, can cause black stool, so it might (or might not) be significant to know just what is in your pills. Black stool also can indicate bleeding somewhere fairly high in the digestive tract, and that is why it is important to have tests unless the cause of the blackness is known positively. I suggest that you report this to your doctor.

Note to D. Z.: Masturbating does not make anyone sterile, so stop worrying about that. Everything you wrote to me is perfectly normal.

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass Pass Pass 1 ♠

Opening lead—king of diamonds.

Whenever a bid cannot logically have its natural meaning, it follows that it must have a specialized meaning. Many conventional bids now in use are based on this principle, one of them being the "unusual no-trump" overall.

The basic purpose of the "unusual no-trump" overall is to tell partner that the overcaller has great length in the minor suits and wants partner to respond in one of them. Naturally, the no-trump overall has to be made in circumstances that make it crystal-clear there is no intention or desire to play no-trump.

Thus, in the present case, West's two no-trump bid cannot sensibly be read as expressing a desire to play no-trump. You can't have a hand that doesn't qualify as an opening bid, yet later undergoes a magical transformation that suddenly blossoms with the high-card values for a natural two no-trump bid.

The "unusual no-trump" describes West's hand, sure enough, and enables him in effect to show two suits with one bid, but at the same time this description of his hand may assist the enemy later on in the play of the cards.

Thus, superficially it would seem that South must lose a spade, two diamonds and a club to go down one. But if declarer takes advantage of the knowledge he gains from West's two no-trump bid, he has no trouble bringing home the contract.

Assume West cashes the A-K of diamonds and shifts to a spade. Declarer wins with the ace, finesse the queen of hearts, continues with a trump to the ace, then cashes the king of spades and A-K of clubs. He now makes the contract by leading a spade or a club. Whichever suit he plays, the defender who wins the trick must yield a ruff and discard that proves fatal.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Mar. 21 to Apr. 20 (Aries) — Make sure you have all pertinent information before making decisive moves.

Apr. 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Superiors appreciative of your efforts; are likely to grant requests.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — New ideas should prove feasible. Don't hesitate because they're a little "far out."

June 22 to July 21 (Cancer) — Keep the meeting brief if running into unconventional acquaintances.

July 24 to Aug. 23 (Leo) — Some new information you receive contradicts one of your pet theories.

Aug. 24 to Sept. 23 (Virgo) — Plans make social plans which put you in specially good light with your loved one.

Sept. 24 to Oct. 23 (Libra) — Shoulder new responsibilities willingly. You'll gain later.

Oct. 24 to Nov. 22 (Scorpio) — Don't make any "gentlemen's agreements." Get everything in writing.

Nov. 23 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius) — Unexpected information you receive clears up a recent mystery.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 20 (Capricorn) — Your outlook will set the tone for the entire day. Make it a bright one.

Jan. 21 to Feb. 19 (Aquarius) — A project delayed by circumstances beyond your control can get going now.

Feb. 20 to Mar. 20 (Pisces) — Don't act too hastily on financial decisions made in mid-morning. Wait!

Astrological — Planetary influences for this day indicate a need for practicality and conservatism. In job/business affairs, this will not be a particularly good period in which to launch new ventures and, on the financial score, it will be vitally important that any agreements or transactions be thoroughly understood, since tendencies toward the misleading prevail at certain times. Evening hours, governed by a beneficent Venus aspect, especially favor romance, the arts, social activities.

Hoffa Resigns
As Union Head

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—James R. Hoffa's formal resignation as president of the giant Teamsters' Union was announced Monday and President Nixon promptly arranged a visit with members of the union's executive board.

A Teamster spokesman told reporters shortly before Nixon's arrival at a hotel where the executive board was in session that Hoffa's written resignation was received Sunday night.

He said Frank E. Fitzsimmons was sworn in as the new president of the 2,000,000-member union early today.

Hoffa has been in federal prison on a jury tampering conviction since March, 1967. He has unsuccessfully sought parole.

Coquitlam School Boys See Farm Industries

ELLISON (Special) — A group of 42 boys from Rochester Elementary school, Coquitlam, visited the Ellison and Rutland districts last week, a return visit for one made by a group of pupils from the Ellison Elementary school recently to the coast. While here the boys were taken on a tour of the district, and made several interesting stops at various places.

Among the places visited were Heemskerk's dairy farm and Mike Jennings' orchard, where the owner initiated them into several phases of fruit growing. They also visited the

WI Delegates Award Duties

WINFIELD (Special) — The final meeting of the Winfield Women's Institute for the year 1970-1971 was held in the form of a pot-luck supper at the home of Mrs. Margaret Teel, on June 16. Nine members and one guest, Mrs. Peggy Gibbons, answered the roll call by giving the members the recipe for the dish they had prepared for the supper.

After dinner, Mrs. A. Hilaby, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Errol McCarthy was named the member to present the combined Winfield and Oyama WI and the Farmers' Institute bursary to a deserving student at the graduation exercises to be held at the George Elliot Secondary School on Wednesday.

Mrs. R. Carter will present the Women's Institute academic plaque at Wood Lake School on Thursday.

Mrs. A. Hilaby and Mrs. M. Teel reported on the Hands Across the Border picnic that was held in Osoyoos on June 15. Due to adverse weather conditions the picnic attendance was not up to its usual standards.

The most enjoyable meeting came to a close and the next WI meeting will be held on Sept. 21 in the Winfield Memorial Hall.

RUTLAND SOCIALS

RUTLAND (Special) — Visitors from Oshawa were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Blabey and their daughters, Maureen, Beth and Ruth.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Reimche were their son, Kenneth and his wife from Saskatoon and Mrs. Reimche's mother, Mrs. Pauline Schmick from Calgary.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Don Ritchey was the latter's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Reimche and Martha McCreey from New Westminster.

Mrs. Lester Johnson from Oids, Alberta is a guest of Mrs. Garnet Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKinley enjoyed a visit from their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Long from Williams Lake.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Elmhirst were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thompson from Chilliwack.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Jones of Williams Lake are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Puymon and baby from Berrien Springs, Mich., motored here to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Puymon. Enroute they visited their grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Palmer at Bison, South Dakota. Mrs. Palmer accompanied them here.

Dr. and Mrs. Wendell Wetstein from Vancouver visited the Okanagan enroute to Yellowknife where he will help in a clinic.

Visiting his sister, Mrs. Arthur Warner, is Gary Holland and his wife from Vancouver.

The Royce Glanzner family have moved here from Oshawa, Ont.

Mrs. David Smart of Williams Lake is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKinley.

Pastor and Mrs. Elsworth Hetke are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hetke before flying back to India, via Japan, where he will be in charge of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in central India. Pastor Hetke is a graduate of the Okanagan Academy and has been taking post graduate work in Walla Walla College since his return from India.

Frank Bunting has returned home from Toronto where he completed his training in chiropractic and graduated. He plans to set up practice in the Okanagan.

Bob Kruse from Thonotossa, Florida, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Honke.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Geen of Teasdale Road, spent a lovely weekend with the Camper Club, touring the Mara Lake area.

Some Penny Stock Investors Caught By Capital Gains

OTTAWA (CP) — Casual investors in penny stocks will be caught in the new federal income tax treatment of capital gains.

Half of whatever they win in the stock market will have to be counted as part of their regular income and taxed at normal rates.

But they will be able to deduct half of any of their losses against their capital gains.

And if—as is frequently the case with investments in penny mining and other cheaply-traded stock—they lose all or nearly all their money, they will be able to deduct up to $1,000 a year from their other earned income before taxes are applied.

MAKES NO DISTINCTION

This is expected to encourage investors to take more risk. Sometimes lightning strikes and such risks can be profitable. But playing the pennies—buying and selling stock at a few cents or up to perhaps $1 a share—is regarded by conservative investors as just another form of Russian roulette, and about as sure-fire.

A finance department source said the proposed new tax law tabled in the Commons Friday by Finance Minister E. J. Benson makes no distinction between penny stock and higher-priced shares in blue-chip companies.

There is one relief, however. Gains and losses will be computed on the basis of net returns or costs to the investor after paying brokerage fees and, where applicable, provincial government securities transfer costs.

The latter is not spelled out specifically in the proposed new tax law which the government wants to get through Parliament by Jan. 1. But an official said he believed that was the intent, since the capital gains tax is to apply to net vendor real-

RUTLAND (Special) — Following is the first of a series of thumb nail sketches on pioneers who received medallions at the Rutland Pioneer Celebrations. The remainder will follow at intervals as space permits.

John James Adams, was born April 4th, 1885, at Rapid City, Man. He homesteaded at Donavin, Sask., in 1904 and remained farming there until his retirement in 1950 when he came to British Columbia.

Louis Paul Bauer, was born on August 18th, 1896 at Quebec City. His father's first job in Canada was breaking stones for the pavement of Main Street in Winnipeg during the winter of 1896-97. Mr. Bauer lived in a log shack on a homestead near Russell, Man. in 1898. His occupation before his retirement was in construction and he lived at Lacombe, Alta., before arriving at Chilliwack, B.C. on July 6th, 1946.

Mrs. Frances Mary Maud Brownlee, was born on Nov. 4th, 1890 in Arkona, Ont. She lived at Richea, Sask. before moving to Kelowna on October 19, 1947. Her mother was a United Empire Loyalist.

Centenarian, Mrs. Gertrude Brunt, was born on April 14th, 1871, at Newbury, Yorkshire, England. Gertrude Scott came to Saskatchewan in 1896 and to B.C. in 1913 moving to Burnaby. Her husband, Jack Brunt, worked as a railroad man with the CPR. She came to Kelowna in 1945 and moved to the Golden Age Home on July 18, 1967. In England she taught school and is a life member of the Rebekahs. Although she had no children of her own, she raised two children: one of whom lives in California. Many older members of the Rebekahs recall that Mrs. Brunt liked to read, do fancy work and was noted for her meticulous appearance and indeed, she still likes to change her dress every afternoon and to wear earrings and other jewelry.

Mrs. Esther Maud Casey, was born on Sept. 9, 1894 in Menith Village, Hartney, Man. She was a bank teller and homemaker before retirement and raised a family of eight children, five sons and three daughters. Mrs. Casey lived in Langenburg, Sask., before arriving in Kelowna in Sept. 1947.

Charles Percy Chamberlain, was born on Nov. 16, 1879, at Old Chelsea, Quebec. His father lived to 104 years of age and was a friend of McKenzie King and J. R. Beattie (Lumber Co.). His mother was born in the house which later became the home of McKenzie King. Mr. Chamberlain was in construction before his retirement and lived in Toronto before arriving in Rutland on Sept. 23, 1968.

Mrs. Eva Maude Chamberlain, was born on Sept. 3, 1883 in Cape Croker, Ont. Her father was a minister to the Indians and Mrs. Chamberlain and her brother were the first white children born on the reserve. She was a milliner before her retirement and lived in Toronto before arriving in Rutland on Sept. 23, 1968.

Mrs. Alice Amey Clement, was born on Aug. 20, 1879 at Westover, Ont. Mrs. Clement lived at McAuley, Man. before her arrival in Kelowna, on Jan. 4, 1901.

Mrs. Grace Clark, was born on Sept. 23, 1881, in Nova Scotia and remained there until moving to British Columbia in 1912.

Mrs. Alexina Dupuis, was born on July 5, 1885 at Ste. Julienne, Que., where she lived until her arrival in Vancouver in 1908. Her husband was a baker in Quebec and after coming to B.C. worked in the mines at Britannia.

Mrs. Mary Levina Dunnett, was born on Nov. 4, 1885 at Granum, Ont. She lived at Indian Head, Sask., before moving to Kelowna in April 1920.

Mrs. Degul Ennis, was born on July 18, 1896 at Whitewater, Man. Mrs. Ennis and her husband lived in a log cabin when they began homesteading 110 miles north of Winnipeg after the First World War. Later they moved to a farm near Winnipeg. In 1926 they went to Vegreville, Alta., where Mr. Ennis became a grain buyer. In 1947 they came to Rutland and began a greenhouse business.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fahlgman, Elizabeth Fahlgman was born on April 14, 1893 at Kronau, Sask and remained there until Oct. 13, 1933. Joseph Edmond Fahlgman was born on Sept. 1, 1889 in Russia and came to Canada in 1893. He farmed at Kronau, Sask. until October, 1933 when he and Mrs. Fahlgman moved to Rutland and settled in the Belgo where they had an orchard. They stayed until 1950 when they retired. Mr. and Mrs. Fahlgman are ardent gardeners. This centennial year they will be celebrating their 62nd wedding anniversary.

Rev. Samuel James Everett Fleming, was born on May 2, 1895 at Summerberry (Wolseley) Sask. He was a minister of the United Church of Canada before his retirement. His great grandfather and his family settled in Ontario in 1824. Mr. Fleming came to Kelowna on March 13, 1908 and he is still residing in the same house he first moved to upon his arrival, The Old Mill Ranch on Highway 97—which is about 100 years old.
